1 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: All right. We're
2 back on the record. And in keeping with our flexible 3 flexibility scheme, we're going to jump right into en 4 banc court. And Professor Dorsaneo says that this 5 should take us no longer than 15 minutes if we are 6 sane and rational people.

7 So without further ado, Professor
8 Dorsaneo -- but Luke's got some thoughts about this, 9 too. Don't leave, Luke. Before you go, give us your 10 thoughts about it.

11 MR. SOULES: Oh, my goodness. I thought 12 if we were going to -- that a way to think about this 13 could be a similar way that the statutes have done 14 with trial judges, and that would be maybe to 15 differentiate between fully retired judges and former 16 judges or defeated judges in how they are treated by 17 their presently-elected and serving brethren on the 18 respective courts.

19 It may be the reason why some of these 20 people haven't been able to be re-elected or have 21 not -- all the way to retirement; so maybe there's a 22 reason to think about those differently.

23 That was the only real observation that 24 I had, Chip.

25 HONORABLE JAN PATTERSON: Any discussion

1 of this gets into visiting judges, so --

2 MR. GILSTRAP: Definitely does.

3 HONORABLE JAN PATTERSON: The whole 4 theory.

5 MR. SOULES: Right. And I'm saying the 6 visiting judges who are fully retired judges may have 7 a different status -- they do already in the trial 8 practice, than those that are defeated or former 9 judges and not retired judges.

10 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Right.

11 Okay. Bill.

12 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Well, I wasn't here
13 at the last meeting, but I understand Frank made -- 14 did you make the full scale report of the type that's 15 in your September 27th memo?

16 MR. GILSTRAP: Yes.

17 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Full scale and 18 eloquent, I might add.

19 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: I'm sure it was.
20 The memorandum is good, and I just point out that what 21 we're talking about is Appellate Rule 41.2(a), and I 22 guess we could be talking about 41.2(b) as well -- 23 involves the same issue in a slightly different guise.

24 Prior to -- look at Frank's memo, if you
25 have it handy. That's what I'm going to be talking

1 from, just briefly. Prior to 1997, the en banc court 2 consisted of, you know, the membership of the court, 3 in terms of the language or the rule, and the majority 4 of the membership of the court constituted a quorum, 5 the concurrence of a majority of the court being 6 necessary to a decision.

7 As amended -- and I don't know whether 8 this came through this committee. I'm inclined to 9 think that it did not. Okay? I'm fairly certain that 10 it did not. I see Justice Duncan who is remembering 11 things the way that I'm remembering them, but the rule 12 now reads that the en banc court consists of, you 13 know, members of the court and members of the panel 14 before whom the case was originally argued. Those 15 panel members can be retired or former justices, and 16 that changes the configuration of the en banc court.

17 There is a statute that deals with this 18 same subject that's on Page 6 of Frank's memo, which 19 says, "When convened en banc, a majority of the 20 membership of the court constitutes a quorum..." The 21 statute, Government Code Section 22.223(b), you know, 22 actually matches the rule prior to 1997 rather than 23 the current rule and some have thought that there is 24 an issue about a conflict between the current rule and 25 the statute.

1 When I said I thought this was not a
2 complicated issue, you know, I meant that. I think 3 it's a serious issue, but it's not like the detainer 4 rule, something that involves a tremendous amount of 5 complexity. "Who is going to be eligible to be part 6 of the en banc court on rehearing," and I asked the 7 members of the subcommittee to provide me guidance and 8 I got a blizzard of guidance that suggested that there 9 are a lot of different ways to look at this. And I
10 don't think it would necessarily be profitable for me 11 to try to summarize that discussion.

12 I, frankly, thought that -- as my little 13 e-mail said, that it was an issue that seemed to 14 overstimulate the subcommittee.

15 (Laughter)

16 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: I believe you told 17 them to get a life, too, as I recall.

18 MR. GILSTRAP: He told us to get out 19 more often.

20 (Laughter)

21 MR. GILSTRAP: I mentioned that to 22 someone and they said it was like the pot calling the 23 kettle black.

24 (Laughter)

25 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: The last time we met,

1 we talked about a case pending before the Texas Court 2 of Criminal Appeals, I think, called Willover, and 3 there was some sentiment that the court was 4 considering this issue and that we maybe should 5 defer -- in fact, maybe that's what Frank's memo said.
6 Is that no longer the case? Is there any reason to 7 defer or should we just jump right into it?

8 Justice Duncan?

9 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: Justice McClure
10 researched this. Those issues in the petition were 11 not granted. So I don't think that will be heard by 12 the Court of Criminal Appeals.

13 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Okay. So there's no
14 reason to hold up because of that case?

15 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: Right.

16 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Okay. With that 17 being said, let's jump right into it. I don't think 18 you-all proposed any specific language, but I assume 19 that, from the tenor of your comments, you would want 20 to go back to pre-1997.

21 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Well, I don't think 22 you can assume that at all. My view is, you know, 23 that I don't have a dog in this fight at all and I 24 would be interested in hearing what the appellate 25 judges would have to say. That would influence me

1 greatly. What I think influences me hardly at all.

2 (Laughter)

3 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Judge Brister, not 4 just an appellate judge but the chief.

5 HONORABLE SCOTT BRISTER: Well, I would 6 propose going back to the old rule for this reason:
7 Most of the courts -- not necessarily the one I'm on, 8 but most of the courts, the question of who are the 9 visiting judges and how many there are on any 10 particular case is entirely up to the chief justice, 11 which leaves the unsavory possibility that on a 12 closely divided court a chief justice could affect -- 13 who was in the minority, could have whatever he or she 14 wants by appointing, on whatever cases were political 15 or big or controversial, appointing one or even three 16 -- 14th Court, we had three visiting judges hearing 17 cases for two years, appoint three visiting judges -- 18 having them hear the controversial case, and, in 19 effect, packing the court on particularly -- en banc 20 is very rare. That's what the rules say it should be.
21 It's only -- it's disfavored. It only tends to be on 22 very close, controversial issues, and I just think the 23 potential for a court packing charge to be raised 24 suggests that it's far better -- I won't even get into 25 the, you know, election of judges and democracy and

1 all that -- far better to have those cases decided by 2 the elected members accountable to the public for 3 whatever they do rather than charges that the -- 4 insider trading before we got to that point.

5 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Luke, do you recall
6 why the rule was changed? Did it come through this 7 committee?

8 MR. SOULES: The Supreme Court decided 9 to change it. We were never consulted, that I recall, 10 on that point. I don't remember ever seeing anything, 11 do you, Bill?

12 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: No.

13 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Judge Patterson.

14 HONORABLE JAN PATTERSON: Just a point
15 of clarification. When you say that there were three 16 visiting judges, Judge Brister, you're not suggesting 17 that the rule, as it now reads, contemplates that all 18 three of those judges would be included in the en banc 19 court?

20 HONORABLE SCOTT BRISTER: Absolutely, 21 absolutely.

22 (Simultaneous discussion)

23 HONORABLE JAN PATTERSON: No, no, no.
24 But if they're not all the panel; so it includes the 25 current sitting judges plus any visiting judges who

1 might have sat on the panel.

2 MR. SOULES: And any defeated judges who 3 were on the panel.

4 HONORABLE JAN PATTERSON: Right, right.
5 But not visiting judges who were not on the panel.

6 HONORABLE SCOTT BRISTER: No, no. You
7 have to be on the case, but as I said, we've got a 8 hundred cases decided by three visiting judges.

9 HONORABLE JAN PATTERSON: But part of 10 those comments have to -- and that was a very specific 11 instance where the Houston court had a panel of 12 visiting judges. So that is a -- I mean, apart from 13 the fact that en banc is very rare, Houston is even 14 more rare with their panel of three visiting judges.

15 HONORABLE SCOTT BRISTER: Well, as far
16 as I'm concerned, 14th Court will never again have a 17 panel of three judges. I just think that's a bad 18 idea. My point is, even if it's just one, a closely 19 divided court, that can make the difference. There's 20 certainly nothing in the TRAP rules or anything else 21 that prevents a chief justice from assigning a very 22 controversial case to three former chiefs.

23 Do I think that's happened or can I 24 point to any situations where that happened? No, and 25 I hope there never will be. I just think, because of 1 the potential that that charge is raised, besides the 2 fact that all of the courts, I believe -- except maybe 3 yours -- are currently an odd number of judges.

4 Correct? You-all are four. Right, Jan?

5 HONORABLE JAN PATTERSON: We're six.

6 HONORABLE SCOTT BRISTER: Six. Most of 7 them are an odd number. And so if you have, in the 8 more usual case where you have one visiting judge on 9 the panel, what you end up with is the Willover 10 problem, which is, you end up where you have a 11 majority of the elected judges vote one way, but it's 12 a tie vote, five to five, and you have to have a 13 majority to turn the case the other way. And so that 14 makes it also look bad, that the majority of the 15 elected judges vote one way but that is not the way it 16 is, and then, "What's the law and the jurisdiction on 17 that issue?"

18 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Stephen and then 19 Luke.

20 MR. TIPPS: I think another reason to go 21 back to the original rule -- and I don't know whether 22 there's any basis for this or not, but it's always 23 seemed to me that Courts of Appeals sit in panels 24 rather than en banc routinely, really for kind of the 25 same reason that they sometimes use visiting judges.

1 And it's just a matter of efficiency and the inability 2 of the court to hear every case en banc.

3 But in the rare instance in which there 4 is an en banc decision, it seems to me that that is 5 truly, in every sense, a decision of the court. And 6 those kinds of decisions ought to be made by the 7 elected judge to the courts. I mean, there's no 8 reason to do any kind of a shortcut and including 9 visiting judges is a shortcut.

10 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Luke.

11 MR. SOULES: Well, I wasn't here for the 12 discussion before. And I apologize for being in other 13 meetings at the time, but -- and maybe this was 14 already said. I mean, there's a solid reason for 15 including these people.

16 I think statistics will show that where 17 visiting judges are on panels, they write most of 18 those decisions. And a lot of times, particularly in 19 San Antonio, at least in the past, the visiting judges 20 have been brought in to do that so that they get some 21 of the opinion writing off of the court.

22 There may be some headshaking down
23 there, but at least those of us who practice --

24 (Laughter)

25 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: She's shaking her

1 head yes -- affirmative.

2 (Simultaneous discussion)

3 (Laughter)

4 MR. SOULES: Anyway, now we've brought 5 this person in whose job it is, as long as they write 6 the majority opinion -- they can get one other 7 concurrence or both on the panel -- to reason through 8 the case and work through the case and write a 9 decision and the decision is either full panel or 10 that person is joined by another elected judge, 11 assuming that there's just one visiting judge on a 12 panel. And I think -- at least in the San Antonio 13 court, I've never had more than one visiting judge on 14 the panel. So we always had the majority of elected 15 judges sitting on each panel.

16 And then the court decides to grant en
17 banc review and this person who's brought in to do 18 this work and done the work and at least got one 19 concurrence in the work is excluded from the process 20 without even an opportunity. And I would think if 21 that person is not going to be allowed to participate in 22 the en banc decision, that person is now excluded from 23 the -- all the dialogue about the case, because 24 they're an outsider at that point.

25 So now they're excluded from the process

1 of deciding the case and isolated them. It's probably 2 the reason why the rule was adopted in the first 3 place. The people who actually participate in the 4 decision of the panel should have an opportunity to, 5 if you will, defend that decision to the assembled 6 court when it gets en banc review.

7 And that makes some sense, I think. It
8 may not be the right answer, but it is certainly one 9 way to do it. That doesn't seem, to me, to be 10 distasteful and extends a lot of courtesy to the 11 people that are coming to try to help get the cases 12 decided.

13 I'm not advocating that. I just don't 14 want it to go without thought.

15 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Frank. Then Sarah.

16 MR. GILSTRAP: Like Professor Dorsaneo, 17 I don't have a dog in this hunt either -- I don't even 18 have a dog.

19 (Laughter)

20 MR. GILSTRAP: But I think -- I am a 21 little puzzled as to why there's so much concern about 22 a visiting judge on an en banc panel when, you know, 23 we have visiting judges that decide cases all the time 24 on a three-judge panel, the two elected judges divide, 25 the third visiting judge decides the case, or an

1 even-numbered justice court, you have a tie breaker
2 appointed, and that visiting judge decides the case.

3 If you're going to have visiting judges,
4 they are going to decide the cases. And I don't see 5 why, when it goes en banc, suddenly that's a different 6 situation.

7 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Justice Duncan.

8 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: As Frank says,
9 to take the visiting judge off the court once an en 10 banc motion for reconsideration -- a motion for 11 reconsideration en banc is filed is really to create 12 two classes of judges. And, to me, this is a -- this 13 boils down to, "Are we going to have visiting judges 14 on appellate courts?"

15 We already have an objection process in 16 the appellate courts to disqualify someone from 17 sitting based upon no reason at all. I think -- I 18 have two dogs, and neither is in this hunt, but --

19 (Laughter)

20 HONORABLE SCOTT BRISTER: I have a cat.

21 (Laughter)

22 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: But I do think 23 it is -- and I could argue this either way, but I do 24 think it is incredibly unfair to a judge who is coming 25 in to sit on a case. In our court, we don't use a lot

1 of visiting judges anymore, but when we did, they were 2 brought in expressly to write the opinion. And you
3 bring in this judge and that judge reads the record 4 and reads the cases and writes an opinion -- we don't 5 even give them a law clerk; they have to write the 6 opinion from scratch on their own -- and then we tell 7 them, "Well, you've done, you know, what you've done 8 on this case and now we're excluding you from the rest 9 of the process." I think that's, as I say, a little 10 bit unfair.

11 I would also point out that on those 12 politically charged cases that Judge Brister was 13 talking about, sometimes the visiting judge is the one 14 judge who's politically immune enough to write what 15 ends up being the correct decision.

16 Chief Justice Cadena wrote a dissenting
17 opinion in Mata v. State which was ultimately more 18 along the lines of what the Court of Criminal Appeals 19 ultimately adopted.

20 I don't think this is an easy question, 21 and I think it's ultimately a question of whether 22 we're going to have visiting judges. To have two 23 classes of judges is, to me, a real policy 24 consideration that we need to think very carefully 25 about.

1 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Richard.

2 MR. ORSINGER: I'm in favor of not
3 allowing the visiting judges to vote on rehearing. I 4 don't object to them listening -- being on the panel, 5 and I don't really object to having three of them on a 6 panel. But when the court wants to speak its mind as 7 a whole, I don't think that people who are not 8 officially members of the court in the full sense of 9 election and what all should be able to weigh in in a 10 way that outweighs the vote of those who are elected 11 judges.

12 And although I don't think it came up in 13 this situation, we came close to it in this situation
14 out of Houston where a majority of the elected judges 15 wanted to participate and have input into the outcome 16 of this case, and the law that was promulgated in the 17 writing of the opinion and the participation of the 18 non-elected judges kept them from doing that. And, to 19 me, that's philosophically different from deciding the 20 case at the panel level.

21 I'm okay with the visiting judges 22 deciding the case at the panel level, because if the 23 full court doesn't want to endorse that decision, they 24 can grant a rehearing and the full court of elected 25 people can take the official position of that court.

1 But for those appointments to vote to close the mouths 2 of the majority of the elected judges to speak on 3 behalf of the court as a whole, that troubles me, you 4 know, just philosophically.

5 MR. GILSTRAP: That's why en banc court 6 is different.

7 MR. ORSINGER: That's why I think en
8 banc is different, because if a three-visiting judge 9 panel does something that the Dallas court or the 10 Houston court won't stand behind, they can always go 11 en banc and overdo it. But if the three judges are 12 thrown into the vote, then the full court can be 13 thwarted, and I don't think it should be. And I think 14 that makes it different from any other judicial event 15 short of en banc reconsideration.

16 MR. SOULES: If the court only puts one 17 justice -- one visiting judge on a panel, what you're 18 talking about cannot happen. The case has been 19 decided.

20 HONORABLE SCOTT BRISTER: No, it did 21 happen. That's what --

22 MR. ORSINGER: Yeah, because the court
23 could split at that point and now you've gone from odd 24 to even and then you've got to appoint another one --

25 MR. SOULES: Well, if the court splits

1 three-to-three, doesn't the decision stand?

2 HONORABLE SCOTT BRISTER: No, no.

3 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: Yes.

4 MR. SOULES: Yes, it does. It does.

5 HONORABLE SCOTT BRISTER: What happened
6 in Willover was, two to one on the panel, visiting 7 judge part of the two. Then it goes to the nine and 8 it was five to five, because the five who wanted to 9 grant and write the opinion differently did not have a 10 majority of the court. So four, plus the visiting 11 judge, were able to leave the decision as it was.

12 Now, the question is, "Next time, could 13 you get it to come out the other way by appointing a 14 different visiting judge the next time or not" -- you 15 know, "Then what would happen if you do an en banc 16 twice and it comes out different?" I mean, it's just 17 a mess.

18 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Nina.

19 MS. CORTELL: What I'm having trouble 20 with is if we go back to the old way of doing it for 21 en banc, then how do we reconcile the situation such 22 as an In Re Masonite item, I believe it was, where 23 you'd have an appointed judge to the Texas Supreme 24 Court who drives the decision in a five/four decision?
25 I mean, how do we reconcile changing the rule back and

1 still having that situation in the Texas Supreme 2 Court?

3 HONORABLE SCOTT BRISTER: The 4 difference -- appointed in a recusal is always 5 different from appointed as a visiting judge, in my 6 view. In the Texas Supreme Court, you don't have 7 visiting judges except in recusals. Right?

8 JUSTICE HECHT: Right.

9 HONORABLE SCOTT BRISTER: So that's the 10 end of it. If the judge is recused, that is the 11 court.

12 MR. GILSTRAP: Bill, you still have the 13 problem about the evenly divided en banc court where 14 you have an even number of judges, like the Austin 15 courts.

16 HONORABLE SCOTT BRISTER: If you have a 17 judge recused, you come -- no, you don't, because the 18 nine is still nine; one is recused. If you're 19 recused, you're recused for good. You don't come back 20 on rehearing.

21 MR. GILSTRAP: But in the Austin court, 22 you've got six judges. If they split, they've got to 23 have a tie-breaker. And there's just no way out of 24 that problem.

25 MR. SOULES: Not on motions for

1 rehearing. The decision stands.

2 MR. ORSINGER: No, Luke. It says -- I'm 3 looking at Frank's memo, but it says -- Rule 41.2(b)
4 says you appoint a tie-breaker. You don't just deny 5 the motion for rehearing en banc.

6 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: The rule says --
7 and I think that's probably what it means, but I'm not 8 completely certain.

9 MR. GILSTRAP: Let me bring you up to 10 speed on that. That was how the Houston court dealt 11 with it in the Polasek case, but then there was an 12 interim case called Wilson. In Polasek, they wound up 13 with two tie-breakers. In Wilson, they went over to 14 the mode where they said, "If the court is -- if you 15 don't get a majority of the court, even if it's evenly 16 divided, you don't get en banc." Do you see what I'm 17 saying? So if you have a ten-judge court and it's 18 five to five, you don't have majority; you don't go en 19 banc.

20 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Justice Duncan has 21 got something to add to that.

22 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: Actually,
23 that's what the Supreme court has held. And Dorsaneo 24 probably remembers the name of the case, or Justice 25 Hecht. I don't. It was a Corpus case.

1 JUSTICE HECHT: Yeah, a case out of 2 Corpus.

3 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: And the Corpus
4 court is a six-judge court and the court divided 5 three-to-three on the motion for reconsideration en
6 banc. And the Supreme Court held that in that event 7 there simply isn't a majority to grant the motion and 8 the case stands as it is. So it's -- I mean, that's 9 just the way that is.

10 PROFESSOR DORSANELO: So what does 11 41.2(b) mean?

12 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: It means after 13 reconsideration en banc has been granted, if the court 14 then can't agree on a judgment, a tie-breaker is 15 appointed.

16 PROFESSOR DORSANELO: Yeah. That's what 17 I thought. It is ambiguous. And I thought it could 18 mean that or it could mean the other matter.

19 MR. ORSINGER: But the argument is still 20 the same, because, in that instance, aren't you in a 21 situation where the majority of the elected judges 22 would favor rehearing en banc but because of the 23 participation of the temporary judge, it's stymied; 24 and, therefore, by default the rehearing is denied?
25 So again, the will of the majority is overcome.

1 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: You keep saying
2 "the will of the majority," and I guess that's why I
3 have my fundamental problem. When the Supreme Court 4 appoints a judge to hear a case in our court, that 5 judge is appointed for the case.

6 And we may have been wrong, but prior to 7 the amendments of 1997, if a judge appointed to the 8 case that heard the case at the panel level, they were 9 on the en banc court as far as our court was 10 concerned, because they were appointed to the case.

11 So I don't understand this thwarting the 12 will of the majority. The majority is the majority of 13 people that are on the case, and that's everybody that 14 sat on the case.

15 HONORABLE SCOTT BRISTER: You-all are 16 just disputing the question about the majority of 17 what.

18 MR. ORSINGER: Yeah. See, I'm talking
19 about the majority of the duly elected judges.

20 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: I understand.

21 JUSTICE HECHT: But the other side of 22 that is, the visiting judges are not foisted on the 23 Courts of Appeal. I mean, if they don't want them, 24 they don't have to have them.

25 MR. ORSINGER: Sure.

1 JUSTICE HECHT: They invite them in.
2 So, in that sense -- I mean, they're asking for this 3 problem.

4 HONORABLE SCOTT BRISTER: As a practical 5 matter, we have to have them. Because unlike the 6 Supreme Court or the Court of Criminal Appeals, we 7 can't say, "No, we don't like that. We don't want to 8 fool with those cases." We have to write on all of 9 them.

10 We haven't had any new judges in 20
11 years, and we're not going to get any new judges. So 12 as -- now, let me just respond to a couple of things.

13 I certainly don't mean my wanting to go
14 back to the old rule to suggest second class 15 citizenship status for visiting judges. We will 16 continue to use visiting judges. They're valuable, 17 smart people; plenty of experience.

18 They're always different, in that in a 19 civil case you can boot them, which you cannot do to 20 an elected judge. That's just the statute, and 21 everybody's always -- according to some legislators, 22 you ought to be able to boot them in all cases.
23 According to Johnny Holmes, you ought to be able to 24 boot them in criminal cases.

25 They're controversial because they are

1 different. They are not elected, and that -- in a 2 democracy, that makes a difference. It doesn't make 3 them lesser intellects or lesser persons; it gives 4 them a different status. And so the question is -- 5 just a fair one, "What should that status be on en 6 banc?"

7 Second, en banc is very rare. As a 8 matter of practice, it's never granted unless you're 9 going to do something different from what the panel 10 did. There are a few of us, like me, that think 11 granting en banc is a good idea just so you can think 12 about it. But make no mistake about it, all of my 13 colleagues believe, if you agree with the majority, 14 you don't vote for en banc. If you agree with the 15 dissent, and there is almost always a dissent -- I 16 cannot think of any instance where there has not been 17 a dissent that en banc was granted, which means the 18 person who's going to write for the court is whoever 19 wrote the dissent.

20 Now, whether we should keep the visiting 21 judge on to change his or her former majority into a 22 dissent because we hate to lose their experience or 23 something, I'm not overwhelmed that we need them to 24 help write the new dissent. The person who's going to 25 write for the court, as a practical matter, is going

1 to be who wrote the dissent on the panel, and that's 2 going to be the voice of the court. And we don't need 3 to add the visiting judge back in the mix because 4 we're going to vote against it.

5 MR. SOULES: What if the visiting judge 6 was at the center?

7 HONORABLE SCOTT BRISTER: If the 8 visiting judge was the only dissent -- well, if the 9 visiting judge was by him or herself as the dissent, I 10 am -- I would say the chance is a million to one that 11 the court would grant en banc in that case, because, 12 of course, the fact is, you've got to get a majority 13 of the court without the visiting judge's help to, 14 say, go the other way.

15 So I just think it's -- my experience,
16 and I hear from some of the other appellate judges, it 17 always happens -- rehearing en banc -- en banc cases 18 are always going to reverse the panel decision. Can 19 you-all think of an instance where it hasn't?

20 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: We frequently
21 have en banc decisions that don't reverse. We have a 22 lot of en banc decisions. It's not rare in our court.

23 HONORABLE SCOTT BRISTER: It's supposed 24 to be, is what the rules say.

25 MR. SOULES: No, it's not.

1 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: No.

2 HONORABLE SCOTT BRISTER: The rule says
3 it is. That's what 41.2(c) says.

4 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: It just depends
5 on how often extraordinary circumstances or unusual 6 circumstances come up. It doesn't say that there's an 7 absolute number. It's a relative thing.

8 I would also like to point out that 9 because it's been, I think, partially stated in 10 e-mails and memos and opinions, that it's true that 11 the Fifth Circuit -- the FRAP rule says that it's only 12 the judges in active service who sit on the en banc
13 court, but the Fifth Circuit -- Local Rule 35 says, 14 "The en banc court shall be composed of all active 15 judges of the court plus any senior judge of the court 16 who participate in the panel decision who elects to 17 participate in en banc consideration."

18 I think -- I would say I didn't help
19 write this rule, but I wonder if one of the reasons 20 for that Fifth Circuit variation is because you don't 21 want to lose the input of someone who was on the 22 panel.

23 MR. SOULES: Is that just senior judges 24 from the Fifth Circuit or does that include trial 25 judges?

1 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: It says "senior 2 judges of the court."

3 MR. SOULES: Of the Fifth Circuit Court?

4 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: But I'm not 5 sure that that's not -- if a senior judge from another 6 circuit comes to sit on the panel.

7 MR. SOULES: I'm just wondering if that 8 would include trial judges who sometimes sit on Fifth 9 Circuit panels.

10 MR. WATSON: It doesn't sound like it
11 does.

12 JUSTICE HECHT: The statute says any -- 13 "except that any senior circuit judge of the circuit 14 shall be eligible to participate at his election and 15 upon designation and the same," and so on, "in the 16 decision of the case."

17 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: What about Luke's
18 question, though, district judges?

19 MR. GILSTRAP: So the district judge
20 who's on the panel doesn't sit on the en banc court?

21 JUSTICE HECHT: This is 28 U.S. Code, 22 Section 46.

23 MR. WATSON: That's interesting, because 24 you're as likely to draw a district court judge 25 sitting on the Fifth Circuit panel as you are to draw

1 a senior judge.

2 MR. GILSTRAP: But they don't go en
3 banc?

4 MR. WATSON: They do not.

5 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: See, we don't 6 have senior judges. We treat, in some respects, our 7 visiting judges as though they were a sitting judge.

8 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: What about the fact
9 that the statute seems to -- according to Frank's 10 memo, it says it conflicts, but --

11 MR. GILSTRAP: Well, let me say this.
12 That gets into the issue of whether or not the court 13 had the power to make the rule in the first place, 14 which is complex. And, frankly, I think we ought to 15 defer that until we figure out the policy issue; 16 otherwise, I tend to get lost, if we try to deal with 17 both issues at once.

18 I mean, I think we ought to decide the 19 policy issue first. And then if we decide to keep the 20 present rule, then we at least have to look at the 21 possibility of whether or not the reporting seat has 22 rulemaking power. That would be my suggestion.

23 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: You know, we can 24 consider it anything you want. But if I'm voting on 25 this thing, it's going be important to me to know

1 whether or not we're conflicting with a statute.

2 Justice Hecht, before you got back, I
3 asked Luke whether he was aware of why the rule 4 changed in '97 and --

5 HONORABLE JAN PATTERSON: He blamed it
6 on the Supreme Court.

7 (Laughter)

8 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Specifically on 9 Justice Hecht as I recall, but --

10 (Laughter)

11 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: We couldn't remember
12 in this committee that it came through this committee.
13 Do you remember why the court changed it?

14 JUSTICE HECHT: I don't have a specific 15 recollection other than there wasn't any disagreement 16 on the court at the time that everybody who 17 participated in the decision in the first place ought 18 to keep on participating -- any more complicated than 19 that. And we just thought from an efficiency -- from 20 an economic point of view, when we knew that there 21 were going to be -- there were probably going to be 22 panels of two or three visiting judges in some Courts
23 of Appeals helping on the backload -- on the cases 24 that backed up, that it just wasn't going to work to 25 have those three judges go in and decide cases and

1 then have the court come in behind them and take them 2 all en banc.

3 It was not a -- we didn't have a long 4 policy discussion about elected versus non-elected or 5 any of the things we've had today. We just thought it 6 was more efficient to have the same people that 7 decided the case in the first place decide the case on 8 the end.

9 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Richard.

10 MR. ORSINGER: It's been a long time
11 since I did criminal appeals, but when I first started 12 practicing law, the Court of Criminal Appeals, I 13 think, consisted of three judges and six 14 commissioners. I don't know if any of the old 15 timers --

16 (Laughter)

17 MR. ORSINGER: I believe that that's 18 right.

19 MR. SOULES: That's right. That's 20 right.

21 MR. ORSINGER: Isn't that right?

22 MR. SOULES: That's right.

23 MR. ORSINGER: I think that there was a 24 right to -- I mean, in every instance, the three 25 elected members of the Court of Criminal Appeals had

1 the final say so on whether the opinion written by the 2 commissioners -- I mean, Luke, do you remember? How 3 did that break down?

4 HONORABLE SCOTT BRISTER: Is that when 5 Grover Cleveland was president?

6 (Laughter)

7 MR. SOULES: That's when Chief Justice
8 Calvert was chief. It was in the late '60s.

9 MR. ORSINGER: I think it was still -- I
10 may be wrong. I think it was still in the '70s.

11 MR. SOULES: I don't remember what 12 authority the three judges had over the commissioners.

13 (Simultaneous discussion)

14 MR. SOULES: The Supreme Court would 15 either, "judgment adopted" or "judgment approved" or 16 "opinion approved" that worked for the commissioners 17 that were there for a while.

18 MR. ORSINGER: But the commissioners
19 never voted. Commissioner A or B never voted on 20 whether their opinion was adopted or approved by the 21 Supreme Court. Right?

22 MR. SOULES: I don't know that. I
23 wouldn't think so, but --

24 MR. ORSINGER: I don't believe they did.
25 So, I mean, we have precedent that -- pardon me?

1 JUSTICE HECHT: No, but they got mad as 2 hell if the Supreme Court --

3 (Laughter)

4 JUSTICE HECHT: I mean, that was one of 5 the reasons it went to a nine judge court, was because 6 commissioners got to saying, "Why are we sitting here 7 doing all of the work and those three guys get to 8 vote?"

9 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: There, at 10 least, you do have a statutorily recognized two 11 classes of judges' system. You've got a commissioner 12 who doesn't get to vote and a supreme court justice 13 who does. And, you know, if we want to revamp the 14 whole visiting judge system so that we have 15 commissioners who travel around the state and help out 16 with case loads and justices who get to vote, that's 17 one thing, but we're talking about engrafting this 18 onto a system where supposedly they are a judge of the 19 court for purposes of that case.

20 MR. ORSINGER: I know that -- I'm not 21 advocating that we revamp the whole system. I say 22 that the decision of the court to speak with one voice 23 on a case is a very important and unique event. And I 24 don't think that the voice of a majority of the 25 elected judges should be quitted or stilled or

1 they're denied the opportunity to speak and write by 2 the vote of people who are not official members of 3 that court in the elected sense.

4 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: They're not.
5 As demonstrated by Justice Taft's dissent, the 6 minority, who happens to be a majority of the elected 7 judges, have the same right as any other judge in the 8 court to write dissenting opinions or denial of 9 rehearing en banc.

10 MR. ORSINGER: Well, unfortunately, what 11 they say isn't precedent and it doesn't affect the 12 outcome of the case. So there is some functional 13 difference.

14 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: I think it 15 would have a tremendous effect on whether the case is 16 -- whether the petition is granted by the Court of 17 Criminal Appeals or the Supreme Court.

18 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Bill.

19 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: It looks to me, in 20 this situation, that if you had two distinct groups of 21 people who might not be irritated by whatever the rule 22 is or who will be highly irritated by being excluded 23 or not being given the right status, given the fact 24 that they are, you know, elected members of the court, 25 the efficiency angle makes good sense. But the reason

1 why I thought this issue, you know, an important issue 2 doesn't involve the same kind of considerations as 3 some others is that we can talk about this until the 4 world looks flat, but it kind of still stays pretty 5 much in balance, you know.

6 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Well, good point. So 7 why don't we --

8 MR. GILSTRAP: Why don't we go on to the 9 second issue, then. You know, there is the issue of 10 the validity.

11 MR. SOULES: Why don't we vote on the 12 policy, Frank?

13 MR. GILSTRAP: And the question is: Do
14 we vote on the policy first and then consider validity 15 or consider validity before we vote on the policy?

16 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Yeah, but the court
17 has sort of spoken on validity, because they voted on 18 it, and there's a way to interpret this, I suppose, to 19 say that membership of the court consists of whoever 20 gets appointed to hear cases.

21 MR. GILSTRAP: You're right. But in 22 Willover, the court didn't vote on it. In other 23 words, Justice Taft dissented from the denial of en 24 banc consideration, and that -- in other words, that 25 issue has not been decided as to whether or not the en

1 banc rule exceeds the rulemaking power of the court.
2 Justice Taft says it does, but he was just dissenting.

3 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Yeah. Okay. Well, I
4 see your point, but I think we ought to vote on the 5 policy, whether or not -- and it seems to me that 6 we've got two pretty good go-bys here. One is the 7 pre-'97 rule that reads "Where a case is submitted to 8 an en banc court, whether a motion for rehearing or 9 otherwise, a majority of the membership of the 10 court" -- curiously it's the same language as the 11 statute -- "shall constitute a quorum and a 12 concurrence of a majority of the court sitting en banc 13 shall be necessary to a decision." That almost 14 precisely tracks the statute. That's pre-'97.

15 And then post-'97, "An en banc court 16 consists of all members of the court who are not 17 disqualified or recused. And if the case was 18 originally argued before or decided by a panel, any 19 members of the panel who are not members of the court 20 but remain eligible for assignment to the court."

21 So that's kind of the two choices.
22 Everybody who is in favor of pre-'97, raise your hand.

23 Dorsaneo, you've got to vote.

24 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: No, we don't 25 have to vote.

1 (Laughter)

2 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: All who are in favor
3 of the current rule.

4 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: I don't want to 5 vote, because I think it's a pure policy question.

6 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Okay. With some 7 members abstaining, the vote is 11 for pre-'97 and 4 8 in favor of the current rule.

9 Sir?

10 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: This gets me back
11 41.2(b) which I read on its face as arguably being 12 ambiguous. But 41.2(b), the way it's been construed, 13 I guess, means that there are two decisions. One is 14 to rehear it, and then is to "What are we going to 15 do?" Okay? And I could split that in two in the 16 context of who the members of the court would be.

17 In other words, maybe we could have -- 18 and this might not be worth it, but just a 19 possibility -- have the decision made by a larger 20 group whether to rehear it or not. And then the ones 21 who vote on what the law is going to be, be the 22 elected members of the court, or even vice versa.

23 MR. ORSINGER: The second vote will 24 never occur, Bill. If you allow the judges who are 25 appointed for the case only to vote against rehearing,

1 they will, and you'll never have your second vote.

2 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Well, that may well
3 be. That makes me wonder why 41.2(b) is there at all.

4 MR. SOULES: Why don't we give the 5 visiting judge half a vote?

6 (Laughter)

7 MR. GILSTRAP: Bill, it's there -- it's 8 still there for the evenly divided, even member court.
9 Do you see what I'm saying? The six judge court, you 10 still need the tie-breaker.

11 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: For when four out
12 of the six decide they want to do something but then 13 they can't decide what to do?

14 MR. GILSTRAP: No. When it's divided 15 three-to-three.

16 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: We had a case 17 in our court -- we're a seven judge court -- where we 18 had three people that favored one judgment and three 19 people that favored another judgment and one judge who 20 was recused and we had to have a judge -- a majority 21 of the court voted to hear the case en banc, but a 22 majority of the court couldn't agree on what the 23 judgment should be -- actually, it was a two-one-two.

24 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Give me the numbers
25 as to how that works, Sarah.

1 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: Okay. We had 2 two to affirm, two to reverse and render and one 3 who -- no. I'm sorry. There were two who would 4 affirm the actuals but reverse the punitives, two who 5 would reverse and render the whole thing and one who 6 would reverse -- who would affirm the whole thing.

7 PROFESSOR DORSANE0: So you had how many 8 that voted for -- to rehear it?

9 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: Oh, I think we 10 probably had seven.

11 PROFESSOR DORSANE0: But then it was 12 three-to-three after?

13 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: It was a 14 jurisdictional question and there were -- two members 15 of the court who thought there was jurisdiction, 16 affirm the actuals, reverse the punitives; one member
17 of the court who thought there was jurisdiction, 18 affirm the entire judgment; and three members of the 19 court who believed there was not jurisdiction and the 20 whole thing should be dismissed.

21 We had to have another judge, and it
22 turned out, we had to have another two judges 23 appointed in order to get a majority in favor of any 24 one of those judgments.

25 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: That's too hard.

1 (Laughter)

2 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: I don't think
3 it's ambiguous. I think the whole glean is, not that 4 they can't agree on how to act on the motion, but they 5 can't agree on the precise judgments that's to be 6 rendered in the case.

7 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Judge Patterson.

8 HONORABLE JAN PATTERSON: I won't speak
9 in favor of the current rule, since we just had a 10 vote. However, I do want to point out the ambiguity 11 in the current rule. The old rule says that you 12 define an en banc court by when the case is submitted; 13 the current rule does not speak to the time, 14 definition of when you measure the en banc court, so 15 that is it at the time of the en bancness or is it at 16 the time the case is submitted? And I think the 17 courts deal with that problem in different ways, and 18 in flexible ways.

19 HONORABLE SCOTT BRISTER: No, we had 20 that on the first court, my brief tenure there, and 21 Murray Cohen convinced us -- and I don't remember what 22 it was, but if you were not a judge at the time the 23 case was submitted, you did not get to vote on 24 rehearing.

25 HONORABLE JAN PATTERSON: That's my

1 interpretation, but that's not --

2 HONORABLE SCOTT BRISTER: That's not 3 uniform.

4 HONORABLE JAN PATTERSON: I don't think 5 that's uniform.

6 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Bill.

7 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: There's one 8 sentence -- and I'm trying to understand this, but 9 this is not something that comes up very often from a 10 practicing lawyer standpoint, let alone an academic 11 lawyer standpoint.

12 But in (c), it says, the next to the 13 last sentence, "If a vote is requested and a majority 14 of the court's members vote to hear or rehear the case 15 en banc" -- it does talk about a majority of the 16 court's members. Is that different from who's in 17 41.2(a) or -- and if it's different, is it meant to be 18 different?

19 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: Can you say 20 that one more time?

21 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Well, en banc
22 consideration disfavor, "A vote to determine whether a 23 case will be heard or reheard en banc need not be 24 taken unless the justice of the court requests a vote.
25 If a vote is requested and a majority of the court's

1 members vote to hear or rehear the case en banc" -- 2 now, reading that, it looks like that's elected, 3 arguably.

4 Well, it needs to be changed, if it's 5 not, given the change in the language in the first 6 part. Right?

7 MR. GILSTRAP: No. You see that -- with 8 the current rule, that's a problem. With the current 9 rule, if you read that to say "court's members" to 10 mean "members of the court," under the old rule, 11 that's a problem. But if we go back to the old rule, 12 which we voted to do, it's not a problem.

13 HONORABLE SCOTT BRISTER: Same.

14 MR. GILSTRAP: They're the same.

15 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: I'm not making 16 myself clear -- is there an inconsistency between the 17 verbiage used in (c) and what is defined as the en 18 banc court in (a)?

19 MR. GILSTRAP: There is, under the 20 current rule, possibly. No one has ever raised that.
21 But if we go back to the old form --

22 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: There won't be.

23 MR. GILSTRAP: -- there won't be. Now,
24 it's implicit in all of this that we're saying that a 25 majority of the membership of the court in the old

1 rule and the language down here, "the court's 2 members," means elected members. I mean, that's 3 implicit, but I don't think the court has ever really 4 said that.

5 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: But you could read
6 this rule to say that the vote for en banc is elected 7 members and then how it comes out includes everybody.

8 MR. GILSTRAP: I see. Yeah, you could.

9 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Because that's what 10 it seems to say.

11 MR. TIPPS: Though that is not the way 12 the first court apparently interpreted the statute in 13 the Willover case, which is not to say that they're 14 necessarily right.

15 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Right. I'm 16 commonly not impressed by a result reached in a 17 different case.

18 MR. GILSTRAP: Steve, I don't think they 19 really interpreted the term "court's members" down 20 there. I don't think they actually construed that 21 particular language in 41.2(c).

22 MR. TIPPS: But they let the visiting 23 judge vote on whether or not to grant rehearing.

24 MR. GILSTRAP: That's right. That's 25 right. But they were looking at 41.2(a), I think.

1 MR. ORSINGER: Inasmuch as we are all
2 aware of the fact the Supreme Court is not bound by 3 our vote, we probably ought to discuss the pro and con
4 of whether the statute requires us to use the old 5 language and not the new, because there are some views 6 about that around the room.

7 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Well, okay. But --

8 MR. ORSINGER: Just as a matter of 9 making the record, I mean, I'm suggesting that simply 10 because some justices may want to look at the debate, 11 and we have, basically, avoided discussing the statute 12 because we voted on policy, but the statute is a 13 factor if you don't agree with the policy.

14 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Okay. Good point.
15 We did vote on policy. It was 11-4. Let's talk a 16 little bit about the statute. The statute in the 17 pre-'97 rule track each other pretty carefully, or 18 closely anyway. So what does everybody think about 19 whether or not the current rule perhaps run afoul of 20 the statute?

21 Bill.

22 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Well, all I know
23 is, the last time I argued that a rule could be 24 harmonized with some statutory language, it would seem 25 to be the opposite. Even though it was a rule

1 promulgated by the court, the rule was actually meant 2 to clarify the statute by giving it a slightly 3 different slant; not one member of the court was 4 willing to accept that view.

5 (Laughter)

6 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: They were going by 7 the language of the statute. And it's, you know, 8 plain meaning without some sort of an attempt to have 9 it made, perhaps, better sense in context.

10 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: So based on that 11 experience, you would --

12 HONORABLE JAN PATTERSON: So they are 13 not moved by one case either, Bill.

14 (Laughter)

15 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Well, if it's 16 theirs, they might be.

17 (Laughter)

18 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: What I'm saying is, 19 I think that you could come to the conclusion that the 20 statutory language was not necessarily inconsistent, 21 and the statute doesn't need to be listed as repeal 22 and this could be just fine working together, but I 23 think that's entirely up to the court and how the 24 court thinks about this question.

25 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Orsinger's point,

1 though, is that the court wants to hear your wisdom on 2 it, not to read -- that they're smart enough to figure 3 it out on their own. So what's your wisdom on this?

4 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Well, I think the 5 statutory language could mean the same thing as 6 41.2(a).

7 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: The current version?
8 You could harmonize the statute with the current 9 version.

10 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: And I think in 11 jurisprudence, generally, the tendency would be on the 12 one hand to say that -- and perhaps this would be more 13 aggressive than the court wants to be -- on the one 14 hand, that a procedural rule is procedural and within 15 the rulemaking power. And on the other hand, in more 16 practical terms, the sensible thing to do is to 17 harmonize and not seek conflicts where you don't 18 really need to see them.

19 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: What about the fact
20 that the prior rule tracked the language of the 21 statute and now they've changed it?

22 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Well, this was just 23 a clarification, then, wasn't it?

24 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: What?

25 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: This was just a

1 clarification, then, wasn't it?

2 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: That would be the 3 argument.

4 Skip.

5 MR. WATSON: Well, I'm just curious if 6 it's even appropriate to ask if, when the court 7 changed it in '97, if it even came up that the '97
8 version -- pre-'97 version tracked the statute, or did 9 that just slip by of somebody saying, "Wouldn't it 10 make more sense to do it this way," and no one picked 11 up that it was based on a statute?

12 If it was discussed in '97, I'm not 13 interested, in here, telling people who made a 14 conscious decision to vary if we don't like it. I 15 mean, they made the decision. It's their call.

16 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Well, Chris wasn't 17 there at the time, so he's absolved of any 18 involvement. And since every single judge in the 19 court has turned over since '97 --

20 (Laughter)

21 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Except for Hecht.

22 (Laughter)

23 JUSTICE HECHT: Well, no, we were aware 24 of the statute, but, again, I don't think -- we didn't 25 have a lengthy debate about this, as I recall. Again,

1 it was just --

2 HONORABLE SCOTT BRISTER: Had a whole
3 set of FRAP rules to discuss at the time.

4 JUSTICE HECHT: Yes, although we did 5 focus on this rule because there's always, in every 6 appellate system, consternation over en banc
7 rehearings. I mean, it just -- in the federal system, 8 there's articles -- Ken Starr wrote an article one 9 time about why you shouldn't have them. The other 10 side of his court, at the time, wrote an article about 11 why you should.

12 You have to understand the internal 13 judicial politics of court, but people who have made a 14 decision don't like being told they were wrong by 15 their colleagues. I mean, it's just -- I mean, it 16 just causes all kinds of friction.

17 But truly, the discussion in our court 18 was just mostly about the efficiency of having the 19 people who participated in the decision stay with it.

20 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Frank Gilstrap.

21 MR. GILSTRAP: Professor Dorsaneo was 22 absolutely right, you certainly could harmonize the 23 phrase "a majority of the membership of the court."
24 You could read that to include visiting judges. But 25 Justice Taft didn't read it that way, and, apparently,

1 the committee didn't read it that way, because we just 2 voted to reinstitute that language and for that 3 language to mean elected judges only.

4 Now, if that language means elected
5 judges only, and it's in the statute, then there 6 definitely is a conflict between the statute and the 7 current rule. And, you know, the question is: Of 8 course, the Court of Criminal Appeals could repeal the 9 statute, if, A, they repealed it, and, B, it was in 10 their power. And that gets the question of whether or 11 not this is an amendment that "abridges, enlarges or 12 modifies the substantive rights of the litigants."

13 I don't know what that means. And the 14 more I read the cases, I'm not sure anybody knows what 15 it means. It means something more than basic due 16 process rights, but it certainly doesn't mean only 17 procedural rights. These are rules of procedure.

18 This earlier case, Polasek, the Court of 19 Appeals in that case said that the amendment to the 20 court reporters rule that was passed in '97, I think, 21 which changed the rule from the fact that you always 22 get a court reporter unless you waive it to you don't 23 get a court reporter unless you ask for it, that that 24 rule exceeded the rulemaking power of the court, 25 because it enlarged or modified the substantive rights

1 of the litigants. And I don't know what that means.

2 What I think we can do is just -- what I
3 want to do is just duck the problem by saying, "We'll 4 go back to the old rule, and that means elected 5 judges," so it doesn't come up. But as Richard points 6 out, the Supreme Court may not buy that.

7 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Well, in the spirit
8 of Richard's -- let's give the court some advice. Do 9 you think that the current rule is in conflict with 10 the statute? Notwithstanding the fact that, you know, 11 a skilled lawyer could come up with an argument as to 12 why --

13 MR. GILSTRAP: If the phrase "majority 14 of the judges of the court" means elected judges, it 15 definitely is.

16 (Laughter)

17 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Well, but that 18 somewhat begs the question, doesn't it?

19 Okay. Yes, Justice Duncan.

20 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: It's sort of 21 like I was saying earlier, when the courts order 22 appointment, it says that this judge is appointed to 23 the case.

24 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Becomes a member of 25 the court.

1 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: Then I think he 2 becomes a member of the court for purposes of that 3 case. Otherwise, you don't -- you're going to have 4 terrible problems with confidentiality and everything 5 else.

6 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: All right. Just so
7 we can give the court a sense of how people come down 8 on this, how many people think that the current rule 9 is not in conflict with the statute? If you believe 10 that, raise your hand.

11 Not all at once now.

12 (Brief Pause)

13 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: How many people think 14 it is in conflict with the statute?

15 (Brief Pause)

16 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: So 10 believe that it 17 is in conflict and 7 believe that it is not. So the 18 court now has the collective wisdom of our --

19 (Laughter)

20 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: And we could appoint 21 three visiting members to this group to make it tie, 22 but --

23 (Laughter)

24 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Carl.

25 MR. HAMILTON: When we only voted

1 before, we only voted as to whether or not we should 2 have the pre-'97 version or the post-'97 version. We 3 have never voted on whether or not we want visiting 4 judges to participate.

5 (Laughter)

6 MR. GILSTRAP: Boy, don't you hate 7 lawyers.

8 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: As Frank said, the 9 premise of the vote was that the pre-'97 rule 10 prohibited visiting judges from participating; 11 otherwise, why amend it to provide that they could.
12 But we can take another vote, although we've lost a 13 few people here.

14 HONORABLE DAVID PEEPLES: Aren't they 15 given that right by statute? I mean, it's authorized 16 by statute, isn't it?

17 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: To vote en banc?

18 HONORABLE DAVID PEEPLES: Are you
19 talking about to even serve on appellate courts?

20 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: No, no, no. He's say 21 to vote en banc.

22 Unless somebody wants to call for 23 another vote, I think --

24 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: Maybe I'm 25 missing something. Is someone aware of a case that

1 holds that the pre-1997 amendment version of the rule 2 is properly interpreted to exclude visiting judges for 3 motions for reconsideration en banc or reconsideration
4 en banc? I'm not aware of such a case.

5 MR. GILSTRAP: I'm not aware of a case
6 either way. That's the problem.

7 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: But we are 8 aware, I think, of what the Supreme Court's order of 9 appointment says.

10 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Was the sense -- 11 maybe it was my fault for not being clear. Was it the 12 sense of our 11 to 4 vote that people who are 13 voting -- the people on the 11 side were voting to 14 exclude visiting judges from en banc consideration?
15 Is that fair to say? Everybody is nodding their 16 heads.

17 So in terms of the courts reading this 18 record, it's the sense of the 11 people who voted for 19 the pre-'97 rule that we are interpreting that as 20 excluding visiting judges from participating in en 21 banc consideration.

22 Does anybody disagree with that -- any 23 of the 11 disagree with that?

24 (No verbal response)

25 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Nobody disagrees. So

1 I think we're done with this issue.

2 Now, Justice Duncan and Judge Peeples,
3 do we want to talk about finality? And can I tell a 4 personal story -- recent story.

5 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: Only if you
6 agree that we're not going to go talk about finality.
7 That's not supposed to be on the table.

8 (Simultaneous discussion)

9 MR. GILSTRAP: You don't want to bring 10 up finality.

11 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Well, it's on the 12 agenda.

13 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Finality will be 14 stuck on stop here.

15 MS. SWEENEY: I want to hear the 16 personal story.

17 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: I still want to tell 18 my story, though.

19 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: You sound like all
20 my students. They always want to here stories.

21 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Yeah. Okay. Here it
22 is. Federal court, not in Texas, four defendants.
23 Two defendants granted summary judgment. The third
24 defendant settles. The fourth defendant fails to show 25 up for trial and is defaulted and there's a default

1 judgment as to that defendant entered. Okay? Do we 2 have a final judgment in federal court?

3 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Oh, we didn't know
4 we were going to get tested on this story.

5 (Laughter)

6 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Well --

7 (Laughter)

8 (Simultaneous discussion)

9 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: I would say no
10 because --

11 HONORABLE SCOTT BRISTER: Chip, Chip, 12 that's a personal story?

13 (Laughter)

14 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Hey, I don't have 15 much of a life.

16 (Laughter)

17 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: I would say no
18 because Rule 58 requires a single piece of paper 19 saying final judgment and disposing of all of the 20 parties, but this -- and so I called the clerk and 21 said, "Hey, we're going to get a piece of paper," and 22 they said "Huh-uh, that's not the way we do it."

23 JUSTICE HECHT: No. As I understand --

24 HONORABLE JAN PATTERSON: So the punch
25 line was that you had a final decision?

1 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: No. We're having it
2 go off the last order which disposed of the last 3 defendant. And there's a period of about 60 days in 4 between these various orders.

5 MR. GILSTRAP: So you were thinking
6 about finality, weren't you?

7 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Yeah. I was thinking
8 about finality.

9 JUSTICE HECHT: Well, as the Federal 10 Rules Committee understood the rule, any time a clerk 11 thinks it's final, it's final.

12 (Laughter)

13 JUSTICE HECHT: If the clerk makes a
14 docket entry that says, "Final judgment rendered," 15 that's it. And there's a separate sheet of paper.
16 There has to be a separate sheet of paper.

17 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Yeah. Well, we don't 18 have either of those things.

19 JUSTICE HECHT: Because it can't be an 20 opinion or any other kind of --

21 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Federal court -- in 22 my experience, federal courts likes that a lot, 23 because the rule kind of is whatever they say it is at 24 the moment, regardless of what it says in the book.

25 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Well, as the prudent

1 lawyer, if the clerk tells me that, "As far as the 2 judge is concerned, it's final," then we'll just go do 3 what we've got to do based on that date.

4 So anyway, we're not going to talk about 5 finality anymore here. It's on the agenda, you know.
6 Sarah says no. David, you don't want to talk about it 7 anymore?

8 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: We might could do
9 Fulton v. Finch.

10 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Well, we're going to 11 do that for sure.

12 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: 306a.

13 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Right. Can we talk 14 about that?

15 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: I'm happy to 16 talk about that, but --

17 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Not finality.

18 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: When I saw the 19 order for appealability in the materials, I called -- 20 e-mailed Deborah, and I said, "No, never, never 21 again."

22 (Laughter)

23 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Well, that's why she 24 jumped on it, you know.

25 Okay. Rule 306a then. Who wants to 1 talk about that?

2 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: David, did you
3 want to do 306 first?

4 HONORABLE DAVID PEEPLES: I rewrote that 5 summary of existing law in Rule 306 that I did the 6 last time and e-mailed it around. It's over there on 7 the shelf. I don't know if we want to talk about 8 that. I tried to do what Richard Orsinger suggested 9 and talked about agreed judgments and family law 10 divorce decrees.

11 HONORABLE JAN PATTERSON: October 31
12 draft?

13 HONORABLE DAVID PEEPLES: Yeah.

14 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Richard -- where did 15 he go? Not here. Has everybody had a chance to look 16 at this?

17 (No verbal response)

18 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: You're talking about 19 the one that says "new language in italics"?

20 HONORABLE DAVID PEEPLES: No, no. This 21 came out -- I think it was e-mailed around two days 22 ago and at the top it says, "Proposed Changes to Rule 23 306, October 31 draft." It's one page, 14 lines, and 24 there are a bunch of them over there on the far right.

25 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Okay. Comments on

1 this?

2 HONORABLE DAVID PEEPLES: And I don't 3 know if we're going to spend a lot of time on it, but 4 this is -- I was just trying to deal with the divorce 5 decree and agreed judgment issue. I don't know if 6 it's -- I don't know where we stand on this.

7 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: And this was because 8 Orsinger wanted it. Right?

9 HONORABLE DAVID PEEPLES: Well, Richard 10 made a very good point, that -- and he's not here -- 11 that we have had this whole discussion primarily 12 because of summary judgments.

13 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Right.

14 HONORABLE DAVID PEEPLES: I've got some 15 research here that shows, in the State of Texas, 16 summary judgments account for .7 of one percent of 17 dispositions, and the problems are caused by a 18 fraction of that .7 of one percent. And yet, we're 19 talking about changing the rules to deal with that and 20 the other 99.3 percent is out there.

21 And the figures also show that roughly 22 two-thirds of the cases -- the civil cases in Texas
23 are family law. And so Richard's point -- and it's a 24 pretty good point -- is that we need to know what 25 we're doing if we're going to change the rules and

1 impact two-thirds of the civil litigation in Texas in 2 order to try to deal with a fraction of .7 of one 3 percent.

4 And so, on Line 5, I added divorce
5 decrees and agreed judgments that are presumed to be 6 final -- "presumed" is the only thing. See? And then 7 on Line 7, it needs to be -- I would say "any other 8 judgment or order is final." I didn't change "and," 9 and I meant to.

10 But this -- I just tried -- I thought we 11 had agreed on those changes at the last meeting, or 12 something like that.

13 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: It's just a matter of 14 drafting.

15 Yeah, Bill.

16 HONORABLE DAVID PEEPLES: Yeah.

17 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Now, I hesitate to 18 say anything, but you mean divorce decrees -- 19 something that says, "I am a divorced decree" -- 20 "Divorce Decree" on top?

21 HONORABLE DAVID PEEPLES: They usually 22 say "Divorce Decree" or "Decree of Divorce."

23 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Yeah. Almost always 24 do.

25 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: And agreed judgment

1 is going to say "Agreed Judgment"?

2 HONORABLE DAVID PEEPLES: Well, no. A
3 lot of times they don't. A lot of times, there really 4 is an agreement -- and I haven't gotten to this -- and 5 it says "Take Nothing Judgment" or "Order of 6 Dismissal" or something like that. And inside the 7 body of it, it will say that they reached a settlement 8 and so forth. I don't know how we deal with that.

9 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: I think it's less
10 likely that somebody would argue that when it says 11 "Divorce Decree" or "Decree of Divorce" that it's 12 really some sort of a partial order, but agreed -- 13 no -- you know, agreed judgments kind of depends upon 14 whether you come to the conclusion that that's what 15 this thing is even though it may not have that title.
16 It may just say "Order" or --

17 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Or it may have that 18 title and not dispose of all of the parties' claims.

19 HONORABLE DAVID PEEPLES: But here's the 20 thing. A lot of the divorce decrees and regular 21 judgments that we sign have language in the body that 22 says, basically, the thing has been settled. And then 23 they're approved as to form by everybody.

24 Now, when that happens, it ought to be 25 over, unless there's language indicating something is 1 left pending.

2 JUSTICE HECHT: I assume you mean
3 "agreed by all parties."

4 HONORABLE DAVID PEEPLES: Yes.

5 JUSTICE HECHT: So that if it was just 6 an agreed judgment between some of the parties, which 7 does happen --

8 HONORABLE DAVID PEEPLES: Sure.

9 JUSTICE HECHT: -- that wouldn't --

10 HONORABLE DAVID PEEPLES: Chip, we may 11 need to let this percolate and think about it. I just 12 sent this around. It was my effort to try to do what 13 we said we wanted to do the last time.

14 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: You want to percolate 15 it until the next meeting or until tomorrow morning or 16 when?

17 HONORABLE DAVID PEEPLES: Well, we have 18 spent a lot of time on this at the last several 19 meetings and I think a lot of people don't have the 20 stomach for it. Something new and more interesting 21 might keep us awake.

22 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Well, do we want -- 23 at some point, we've got to bring this -- we have to 24 have closure. So do you want to let people -- yeah, 25 Nina.

1 MS. CORTELL: I think we can probably 2 resolve it now. I mean, I can't speak to the family
3 law issue, but I do have a concern I think I'm hearing 4 already expressed with agreed judgments. That's 5 opening a whole can of worms unless we more fully go 6 into it.

7 The whole presumption on conventional 8 trials, so on and so forth, won't be true here, and 9 you have a lot of partial agreed orders entered. And 10 once -- you know, so I think if we're going to go into 11 that, we'll have to really define it a lot more 12 carefully.

13 My suggestion would be to stay away from 14 that and just to address the family law issue 15 narrowly, which I guess is handled by divorce decree, 16 but I don't know that.

17 (Simultaneous discussion)

18 UNIDENTIFIED SPEAKER: Joan, did you 19 ever see a divorce decree that had some other title on 20 it?

21 MS. JENKINS: No, I do not. And I think 22 David is absolutely right. And Richard and I had 23 talked about this briefly, and I think that does 24 address our concerns. And I think that definitely is 25 something that needs to be in the rule.

1 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: And we talked about 2 agreed judgments, perhaps not fully enough, but we 3 talked about it a lot last time.

4 HONORABLE DAVID PEEPLES: Well, as I
5 hear Nina, she's saying something is agreed, but it 6 really doesn't deal with the whole case, and you
7 shouldn't -- and you're right about that. That's a 8 valid statement.

9 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Yeah.

10 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: I move to take out 11 "agreed judgments."

12 MS. JENKINS: Second.

13 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Done.

14 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Take out agreed 15 judgments?

16 HONORABLE DAVID PEEPLES: The word
17 "agreed judgments" and the commas on both sides of it 18 are gone from Line 5. You got that, Richard?

19 MR. ORSINGER: No, but I'll catch up
20 with you. I stepped out for a moment, and I didn't 21 know the most important issue of the day was going to 22 be taken up.

23 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: We almost sent for 24 you.

25 Okay. With that done now -- Bill.

1 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Well, the only
2 other thing I would say -- this may not be necessary, 3 but in Calvert's language in the Oil Bridge case by 4 conventional trials, he talks about, you know, if 5 there's no order of severance or separate trial or no
6 order of separate trial, maybe he just says that, I 7 don't think that needs to be in there myself, but --

8 HONORABLE DAVID PEEPLES: Bill, to me,
9 that would rebut the presumption.

10 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Yeah. All right.
11 Okay. Fine.

12 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Okay. With those 13 changes, are we prepared to approve this rule?

14 MS. CORTELL: Yes.

15 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Anybody opposed to 16 this rule as amended?

17 (No verbal response)

18 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: So this will pass
19 unanimously and be sent to the court. Hallelujah.

20 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: And a hand for 21 David Peeples.

22 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: And for Sarah Duncan.

23 (Applause)

24 MS. CORTELL: I sort of published the 25 prior version of the rule, Portions Before a Divorce

1 Decree and Agreed Judgment, at a talk I gave on 2 finality, and it was really excellent because it 3 really does capsulize along a pretty simple and 4 straightforward way, and I just thought I'd tell you 5 it was very helpful to the crowd.

6 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Okay. Let's talk 7 about 306a.

8 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: The 9 subcommittee started from Pam Baron's letter in which 10 she stated, and the committee thinks correctly, that 11 Rule 306a was operating as one big "gotcha" because of 12 several discrete questions that didn't have clear 13 answers in the case law. The Courts of Appeals were 14 all over the place on several critical questions.

15 We have -- my memory is -- yes. October 16 19th of 2000, the committee submitted a -- 17 subcommittee submitted a report to the full committee.
18 I believe Deborah disseminated copies again, "Report
19 of the Subcommittee on Texas Rules of Civil Procedure, 20 300 to 330."

21 In that report is Rule 104, which is the 22 recodification draft of Rule 306a. We addressed 23 several questions, and I'd like to -- rather than go 24 over the whole rule, which I think could be incredibly 25 confusing, take one question at a time and then look

1 at how the committee resolved it and how that's 2 reflected in the proposed rule and then debate that 3 and see if there's agreement on disagreement or what 4 the problems are rather than trying to go through the 5 whole rule at once. And I'm sorry the pages aren't 6 numbered.

7 At the top of one page, it says, Arabic
8 3, TRCP 306a/Procedure. Issue 1 a -- it says "a" -- 9 states, as I've just said, that there's several 10 discrete issues about which there's a great deal of 11 disagreement. Subpart b is the subcommittee's 12 recommendation. And then we go down to the specific 13 recommendations.

14 The first issue we dealt with is, "When 15 does a 306a motion have to be filed?" There were some 16 courts who held that a 306a motion had to be filed 17 within 30 days after the date the judgment was signed, 18 without regard to when notice was received. There are 19 other courts who said that it had to be filed within 20 plenary power, but, again, that dated from the date 21 the judgment was signed without regard to notice.

22 The ultimate effect in a few cases was 23 that people had to file a 306a motion before they even 24 learned that they needed to file a 306a motion.
25 That's the Stokes case cited in the report, which was

1 reversed on other grounds by the Supreme Court.

2 The committee decided to recommend to 3 the full committee that there not be a time limit on 4 when a 306.a.4 motion had to be filed, and that's 5 reflected in the following page. Rule 104 -- I'm 6 sorry, two pages away -- Subsection -- Rule 7 104(e)(5)(b), "A motion seeking to establish the 8 application of Paragraph (e)(4) may be filed at any 9 time."

10 After the subcommittee rendered its 11 report, the Supreme Court held, in John v. Marshall 12 Health Services, September 2001, that the 306a motion 13 had to be filed at any time within the period that the 14 trial court had plenary jurisdiction over the 15 judgment, measuring from -- measuring that date of 16 plenary power from the new date that's established by 17 a 306a procedure.

18 It's my understanding, in speaking with 19 Justice Hecht today, that it's acceptable to the court 20 if we just file -- the rule says "at any time." The 21 problem is writing a rule that says, "Here's your 22 deadline, but we don't know when your deadline is 23 until after we've decided your motion." And it's 24 easier just to say "may be filed at any time," and 25 then the court -- the trial court will find the

1 date -- the substituted date of judgment, and then we 2 can decide whether the motion was timely or whether 3 any motion for new trial was coming.

4 JUSTICE HECHT: I mean, I think, as a
5 practical matter, it comes out at the same place, 6 because -- just to give an easy example, if you file 7 this motion way later than it would do you any good, 8 even if the motion is good, then it doesn't -- then 9 you just deny the motion. You can't get the benefit 10 of it if you file it long after the matter --

11 HONORABLE SCOTT BRISTER: Two years.

12 JUSTICE HECHT: Yeah, two years or six 13 months, some long period after the 90 days, which is 14 the longest period we have, so -- looks, to me, the 15 same.

16 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: What I'd like 17 to do is discuss them as we go through rather than 18 going through 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, because I think we're all 19 going to get really confused.

20 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Yeah. I can't even 21 find it in my notebook. Let's all go through a page 22 numbering process.

23 If we start on the first page, "Report
24 of the Subcommittee on Texas Rules of Civil Procedure" 25 and label that 1. Arabic 1, "Final Judgments," will

1 be Page 2. Lower case (a), "Issue," will be Page 3.
2 Arabic 3, TRCP 306a/Procedure will be 4. "Rule 3 104.Timetables" will be Page 5. The page that begins 4 with, "That is filed pursuant to but not in compliance 5 with this paragraph may be amended" will be Page 6.
6 Arabic 5, "Motions that Extend Plenary Power" will be 7 Page 7. And I apologize, again, for not having 8 numbered the pages.

9 MR. ORSINGER: I have a Page 8, Sarah.
10 You don't have a Page 8, "Duration"?

11 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: There is a Page
12 8. I just don't have it.

13 MR. ORSINGER: No. Probably, it's an 14 earlier page that's out of order. The page that says 15 Arabic 1, "Duration" is supposed to be page what?
16 It's my last page.

17 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: That's my last page.

18 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: It's 8. I just 19 don't have it, for some reason.

20 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Okay. Do you want to 21 go through them one by one? How do you want to go 22 through them?

23 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: Yeah. I'd like 24 to go through them one by one and have discussion and 25 a vote on when the Rule 306a motion should be filed.

1 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: What page are we 2 starting on, Sarah?

3 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: Page 6, Subpart
4 (a).

5 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Okay.

6 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: "Time to File
7 Motion."

8 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: "A motion seeking to 9 establish the application of Paragraph (e)(4) may be 10 filed at any time"?

11 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: Uh-huh.

12 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: All right. Any 13 discussion on that?

14 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Has everybody gotten 15 to it?

16 MR. ORSINGER: That's page -- what?

17 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: 6.

18 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: 6.

19 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Anybody opposed to 20 it?

21 MR. ORSINGER: Can I be sure I
22 understand it?

23 In other words, if it's filed much,
24 much, much later -- months later, is the motion going 25 to be denied? You can file it, but it's going to be

1 denied? So what we're saying now is, "We're not 2 keeping somebody from filing it untimely." We're just 3 saying, "If you file it untimely, you'll lose it."

4 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: Right.

5 JUSTICE HECHT: Well, actually, it might 6 be granted, but it won't do you any good.

7 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: It might be 8 granted, but the date -- the substituted date of 9 judgment will be too late to do any good.

10 JUSTICE HECHT: If you say -- if 11 judgment is rendered on January the 2nd and you file a 12 motion on February the 1st and -- sorry -- and you 13 didn't get notice of it until February the 1st, but 14 you don't file a motion until September the 1st, then 15 the motion might be granted and say, "Yes. You didn't 16 get notice till February 1st, but it doesn't matter 17 because all of your time has already run."

18 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: That's pretty 19 tricky.

20 (Laughter)

21 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Actually, I had a 22 case years ago where the time was set out and the 23 Dallas Court of Appeals kind of assumed that if they 24 had time to rule on this motion they had time to let 25 me do something.

1 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Pam.

2 MS. BARON: I was counsel in the Stokes
3 case, and in that situation, the clerk sent out the 4 wrong date of judgment to the parties. If that were 5 the correct date, the appeal was timely perfected 6 because the motion for new trial was filed on the 30th 7 date after that date. They didn't find out that was 8 the wrong date until the show cause order issued from 9 the Court of Appeals after 90 days had expired from 10 the date of judgment. But I would think they could 11 still go back and file a motion and get the date set 12 and everything would be timely retroactively. So in 13 that situation, it would work.

15 MS. BARON: Okay.

16 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: Right. The 17 only reason we said "at any time" is just because 18 going through all of that and saying, "Your deadline 19 for filing the motion is within the trial court's 20 plenary power as measured from a date that we're going 21 to set in ruling on your motion," just got a little 22 awkward.

23 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Nina.

24 MS. CORTELL: I agree it's very awkward,
25 but I feel like this is misleading. If someone

1 doesn't go through all of the steps, then they will 2 take it literally and think that, "No harm will befall 3 me if I file three years later." I'm a little 4 concerned it's a minor trap the way -- as written.

5 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Do you agree with 6 that, Sarah? Tricky? Trappy?

7 (Laughter)

8 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: I don't see it
9 as a trap, but I'm more than happy -- and I think the 10 whole subcommittee is more than happy to --

11 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Spring the traps,
12 take the tricks out of it?

13 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: -- say it as 14 awkwardly as it's going to be said. I mean, because 15 it is going to be --

16 MS. CORTELL: I understand that, but I'm 17 a little concerned that someone who doesn't fully 18 study it and read through all the parts may misread 19 the language.

20 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: Within the 21 trial court's -- that it would be within the trial 22 court's -- "at any time within the trial court's 23 plenary power as measured from the substituted date of 24 judgment established by -- under the order."

25 MS. BARON: Well, I don't know that

1 that's -- is that your concern?

2 MS. CORTELL: Yeah.

3 MS. BARON: Oh, okay. All right.

4 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Stephen.

5 MR. TIPPS: I was just thinking an 6 alternative would be to say "a motion seeking to 7 establish application may be filed at any time, but a 8 timely filed motion may be denied if the time limits 9 have run." Is that a better way to say it or not?

10 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: "A timely filed 11 motion may be denied if the time limits have run"?

12 MR. TIPPS: Well, if the issue is, you 13 can file it -- well, that's -- we need to clean up the 14 language. You're right.

15 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: David.

16 HONORABLE DAVID PEEPLES: I should know 17 this, but why do we need to change the language of the 18 rule if the Supreme Court two months ago fixed the 19 problem?

20 MR. GILSTRAP: Two weeks ago.

21 HONORABLE DAVID PEEPLES: Two week ago, 22 was it? Whenever.

23 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Recently.

24 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: The 25 subcommittee has not discussed this, so I can only

1 speak for myself, but, for myself, it's not good 2 enough that it's in a Supreme Court case. If there's 3 a deadline for filing it, it ought to be in the rule.

4 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: It wouldn't hurt to 5 be in the rules is the point, if it's consistent with 6 the law.

7 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Richard. Then --

8 MR. ORSINGER: Is this analogous to a 9 rule that says "motion for new trial may be filed at 10 any time, but if it's not filed within 30 days, it's 11 invalid or it's going to be denied"?

12 I mean, we normally say that you can 13 file something during that period of time when it has 14 some legal effect, if you file it. And beyond that 15 time, we don't lead people to believe they can file it 16 because some of them may infer from that that they 17 have that extra time to file.

18 JUSTICE HECHT: But it could happen,
19 that's the point. Either -- I think Pam's point is 20 that even if you filed it months and months and months 21 later because you didn't know you needed to file a 22 motion until then, it would still be okay because you 23 went through the procedural steps as it happened in a 24 timely fashion. You just didn't realize you were 25 doing it at the time.

1 MR. ORSINGER: I see the difference. I 2 sure do.

3 MS. BARON: But I'm not sure my case
4 would work because you still would have gotten notice 5 of the judgment actual date past the 90th day.

6 JUSTICE HECHT: If you get notice after 7 the 90th day, then --

8 MS. BARON: Well, I mean, the first time 9 they found out that the date on the card was wrong was 10 when the Court of Appeals told them it was wrong, 11 because it was actually filed within 90 days but the 12 Court of Appeals didn't issue their show cause order 13 until after the 90th day.

14 So are those people just out of luck
15 even though they did everything right?

16 MR. ORSINGER: Bill of review time.
17 That's good grounds for bill of review. You have a 18 meritorious defense.

19 JUSTICE HECHT: Well, if you were 20 mistaken about the day by, say, ten days or something, 21 the clerk told you one thing and you didn't look it up 22 and so you were mistaken about the day and you went 23 from that -- and you perfected everything, and so 24 everything was -- and if that's the right day you're 25 in, it shouldn't make any difference if you file the 1 306a motion six months later.

2 MS. BARON: But I think the 306a motion
3 sets the date as the date of knowledge -- right -- 4 date you got notice of late judgment, Sarah?

5 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: Are you saying
6 does --

7 JUSTICE HECHT: Oh, I see what you mean.

8 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: I have to say
9 our court, as a for instance, has been operating more 10 in the way that Pam is proposing. When we -- 11 regardless of whether there is a 306a motion on file 12 or not, when we look at the clerk's record and see 13 that there's some slippage between the date of 14 judgment and the date a motion for a new trial was 15 filed, we issue an order saying, "Explain this to us.
16 And if you need to file a 306a motion do." And we may 17 not look at the record -- the clerk's record until way 18 after this time has expired.

19 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Carl.

20 MR. HAMILTON: I don't understand when 21 the time expires in view of TRAP 4.2(d), which says, 22 "Even after the trial court's plenary power expires, 23 the trial court has continuing jurisdiction to hear 24 the 306a motion." So when --

25 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: And that's part

1 of the reason for the show cause order that we issue.

2 MR. HAMILTON: When does the time
3 expire? We're talking about that you can file it, but 4 it isn't going to do you any good because it's too 5 late.

6 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Elaine.

7 PROFESSOR CARLSON: I thought the 8 conversation we had when 306.a.4 was talked about 9 originally was -- the consensus of the committee was a 10 lawyer ought to be checking the file every three 11 months. And we spent a lot of time trying to figure 12 out how much time should be the outside limit, because 13 we didn't think it was a good idea to leave judgments 14 open forever. And that was my recollection of the 15 conversation.

16 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Bill.

17 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: I'm actually 18 re-remembering my experience, and the "filed at any 19 time" did relate back to a set of circumstances that 20 demonstrated that there was time for filing a motion 21 for new trial because of the date of knowledge or 22 notice.

23 With the addition of more language, I
24 could like "at any time." You know, what would the 25 more language be, "as long as it is demonstrated

1 that"?

2 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: More.

3 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: "That knowledge or 4 notice was acquired," you know.

5 JUSTICE HECHT: Oh, but you wouldn't 6 want filing to turn on that. They file their motion, 7 you say, "Well, when did you first learn about this?
8 Well, way after 90 days. Okay. Well, you can't file 9 your motion."

10 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: No. I'm saying
11 you --

12 MS. BARON: Actually, there's no 90-day 13 provision in the rules anymore. Is there, Sarah?

14 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: Yeah. There's 15 an outside limit.

16 PROFESSOR CARLSON: I think it's 17 Subsection 4. Subsection 4, maybe.

18 MS. BARON: Oh, the no change provision?

19 PROFESSOR CARLSON: The very end, yeah.
20 "But in no event shall such period begins more than 90 21 days after the original judgment or appeal order was 22 signed."

23 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Here's what I
24 think. You have a judgment and somebody files a 25 motion for a new trial or perfects the appeal, you

1 know, beyond 30 days so it looks late, but then at 2 some point later it could be demonstrated that it 3 wasn't late because no knowledge or notice was 4 acquired, you know, after the date the judgment was 5 signed, and, you know, not longer than the 90 days -- 6 I mean, short of the 90 days. I really think that's 7 the case that I had, and this motion was argued and 8 happened much, much later. I think that may be a 9 common situation where somebody is a little late.

10 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: I'm now
11 remembering that that's why -- we actually did discuss 12 what the Supreme Court ultimately held within the 13 plenary power as measure from the substantive date, 14 and it was because of cases like Bill's or like those 15 we get all of the time that we just finally said "at 16 any time."

17 If the Court of Appeals notices the 18 error when it looks at the clerk's record, which in 19 some courts could be a long time after the date of 20 judgment or the substituted date of judgment, 21 shouldn't those people have the opportunity, still, to 22 go back and establish that their motion for new trial 23 was within 30 days of the date that they had notice?

24 MR. ORSINGER: They sure should.

25 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: So, Sarah, you're

1 okay with this language? You like this language?

2 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: I like the 3 language without anything else.

4 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Okay. You like it as 5 is.

6 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: I like it "at 7 any time."

8 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: And, Justice Hecht, 9 do you think this is --

10 JUSTICE HECHT: I think it's good.

11 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Good, yeah.

12 JUSTICE HECHT: I like it.

13 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: All right. With 14 those --

15 JUSTICE HECHT: I see Nina's problem,
16 but -- I mean, you might look at this and say, "Okay.
17 I'm going to win. Thank God."

18 (Laughter)

19 MS. CORTELL: Three years later.

20 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Soon. Relatively 21 soon.

22 Anybody want to vote on anything on 23 this?

24 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: I move that we 25 adopt.

1 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Okay. Move that we 2 adopt this language as is. Anybody second that?
3 Rich.

4 MR. ORSINGER: Yeah, but when you say
5 "this language," you're talking about the whole rule?

6 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: I was going to 7 say, can we not piecemeal it? Can we just --

8 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: I thought you wanted
9 to piecemeal it.

10 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: I want a 11 piecemeal discussion.

12 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Not a vote?

13 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: And then 14 hopefully we're all going to agree with all the parts 15 of the rule that were written and we'll vote it up or 16 down.

17 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Fine with me.

18 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Let's look at the 19 contents of the motion then.

20 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Okay. Now where do 21 we go?

22 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: The second 23 issue that the committee addressed on Page 4 is 24 verification. And the subcommittee really tossed this 25 one around and what we ultimately ended up with was a

1 compromise.

2 There were several people on the 3 subcommittee, including me, who thought that the 4 seriousness of this whole procedure, of substituting a 5 new judgment date, should mean that you should have to 6 file a verified motion. But at the same time, many 7 members of the committee believed, again, including 8 me, that if it wasn't verified and there was no 9 objection, that shouldn't cause your motion 10 retroactively to be defective so that the court wasn't 11 invested with jurisdiction -- vested with 12 jurisdiction.

13 So what the committee adopted was the 14 compromise. And if you look at the bottom of Page 5 15 in (e)(5)(a), "Requisites of Motion," it does have to 16 be -- the rule requires that it be a verified motion, 17 but the last paragraph, "If an unverified motion is 18 filed and the respondent does not object to the lack 19 of the verification at any time before the hearing on 20 the motion commences, the absence of a verification is 21 waived."

22 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Richard.

23 MR. ORSINGER: I don't have any problem
24 with that, because, as a practical matter, you either 25 grant or deny the motion based on the evidence that's 1 presented at the hearing and not based on the 2 accusations in the motion. And I think that it's 3 really ridiculous to say that someone who didn't 4 verify a motion but who was able to prove it through 5 sworn testimony to the satisfaction of the trial judge 6 should somehow lose on appeal because the motion 7 wasn't verified when the sworn evidence persuaded the 8 trial judge.

9 So I think if you have an objection to 10 that, you should raise it before the hearing or else 11 you're going to be -- your papers are going to be 12 graded on the evidence in the hearing.

13 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: The problem is 14 that there are several Courts of Appeals that have 15 held, "If you don't file a verified motion, the 16 court's 306a jurisdiction is not invoked, even if you 17 later prove the contents of your motion at an 18 evidentiary hearing." And we, in fact, had one of 19 those cases and it's a hard thing to tell somebody 20 that, "Yeah, you proved exactly what you needed to 21 prove, but your invoking instrument was defective."

22 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Way harsh.

23 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: Way harsh.

24 (Laughter)

25 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Bill.

1 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: I don't even think
2 it's a good idea to have a waivable verification 3 requirement. It just seems to me to be just acquiring 4 formalisms that aren't necessary. And whenever I file 5 anything, you know, it's with the court that contains 6 information. I mean, I'm standing behind that 7 information.

8 JUSTICE HECHT: The chances --

9 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Why should I assume 10 that if I didn't verify it that I might be fooling 11 you, especially since we're going to have to have 12 proof of it at a hearing?

13 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: I don't think
14 it's that anybody assumes one way or the other. I 15 guess several of the committee members, and my 16 perspective on it, is that this is a pretty serious 17 procedural change, to change the date of the judgment.
18 It consumes a great deal of trial court time. And you 19 ought to have to put some -- put your credibility on 20 the line when you file one of these motions.

21 I mean, we've had motions from attorneys 22 that do everything they can do not to state the date 23 their client got notice of the judgment.

24 (Laughter)

25 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: I'm serious. I

1 have been amazed at the manipulation of the language 2 in 306a to avoid saying what the rule requires you to 3 say, to avoid getting a finding of what the rule 4 requires you to find in the hopes that they're going 5 to kind of slide it through.

6 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Do they verify 7 these?

8 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: No. Frequently 9 not.

10 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: I thought you were 11 going to say, "Yes," and then the answer would be, 12 they said --

13 (Simultaneous discussion)

14 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: Well, as I say, 15 frequently not, but I think that's part of the mixture 16 here. I don't see anything wrong with, if you want a 17 new date of judgment, you've got to file a verified
18 motion. And if I require you to file a verified 19 motion, before I go to the expense -- I mean, let's 20 say someone files an unverified motion and I, as the 21 defendant, with the judgment in my favor object and 22 say, "No. You've got to file a verified motion."
23 Part of my reasoning very well could be, "You can't 24 verify what the rule requires you to verify and you 25 shouldn't be able to put me to the expense of a

1 hearing until you've filed the verified motion."

2 Now, if I'm not concerned about that and 3 I'm -- you know, I've got a good lawyer on the other 4 side and I feel quite sure we're going to go to a 5 hearing and they're going to prove their allegations 6 and my objecting to the lack of verification isn't 7 going to make any difference, I can waive it. But why 8 shouldn't the movant be required to swear to the truth 9 of the facts in the motion to put me to the expense of 10 having to litigate that?

11 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Okay. And frankly, 12 Justice Hecht mentioned that, you know, not too many 13 DA's are going to probably prosecute if the 14 verification is not accurate. However, if somebody is 15 playing loose, a district judge might really treat 16 that differently and with more seriousness and roast a 17 lawyer who was playing loose with the facts.

18 HONORABLE SCOTT BRISTER: Do you have to 19 have an oral hearing on these?

20 MR. ORSINGER: Yes.

21 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: We're going to 22 get to that.

23 HONORABLE SCOTT BRISTER: I mean, in the 24 current rule, I don't see it.

25 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: We're going to

1 get to that.

2 MR. ORSINGER: I think it is in the 3 current rule. I don't have it with me, but I've been 4 through these before.

5 HONORABLE SCOTT BRISTER: I'm looking at 6 it, and it says, "On sworn motion and notice, the 7 party adversely affected is required to prove in the 8 trial court on sworn motion and notice."

9 MR. ORSINGER: That doesn't mean hearing 10 to you?

11 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Okay. Any more
12 discussion on the verification?

13 (Simultaneous discussion)

14 HONORABLE SCOTT BRISTER: Texas law
15 almost never requires oral hearing unless you 16 absolutely say "oral hearing."

17 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: We'll get to 18 that in a minute.

19 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Okay. We're going to 20 get to that in a minute.

21 HONORABLE SCOTT BRISTER: Okay. Because 22 then, obviously, that makes a difference if the judge 23 can decide it without an oral hearing. Then you've 24 got to have a verified motion, same as a continuance.

25 I mean, generally, the reason we require

1 verifications -- verified defenses are things that are 2 almost always one way, and if you're going to make 3 everybody go to the time and expense of finding out 4 whether it was like it is in almost all the time, 5 you've got to swear to it first.

6 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Okay. We're going to 7 get to the hearing --

8 HONORABLE SCOTT BRISTER: So if it's 9 contributory negligence, you don't. But if it's, 10 "That's not my signature. That's a forgery of my 11 signature," you've got to swear to that because that's 12 a time and an effort that we assume in 99.9 percent of 13 the cases ain't so. It seems to me, getting a notice 14 from a trial court is a 99.9 percent rule and you 15 ought to have to swear to it if you -- rather than 16 just making us go to all of this trouble by just 17 saying it ain't so.

18 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Well, Sarah agrees 19 with you, but notwithstanding the fact that she also 20 thinks we ought to have an oral hearing, which we're 21 going to get to.

22 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: We're going to 23 -- that's a question.

24 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Point of 25 information. In this draft, how would this work?

1 There's an unverified motion or a motion
2 that's not verified properly. I'm assuming that to be 3 a verified motion. It has to be a properly verified
4 motion. Okay? And here's where we go. We're going 5 to have -- the hearing is set and I say, "Your Honor, 6 before we have this hearing, I would like to object to 7 the lack of proper verification." What happens? Go 8 home?

9 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: Well, at the 10 bottom of Page 5, "If an objection is timely made, the 11 court must afford the movant a reasonable opportunity 12 to cure the defect."

13 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: So we've got to 14 stop the presses and go start over?

15 HONORABLE SCOTT BRISTER: No, no, no.
16 You just say --

17 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: You just have 18 to find a notary.

19 HONORABLE SCOTT BRISTER: -- "Here's the 20 court reporter. Do you want to swear to your motion 21 then?" They say, "No. I prefer not to swear to my 22 motion."

23 (Laughter)

24 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: See you.

25 MR. TIPPS: Came close.

1 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: So it's really kind
2 of a trial amendment.

3 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: Is there
4 something that you want that's different?

5 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: If you're going to 6 have this verification, I would like to have it 7 waivable a little earlier than immediately before the 8 hearing. Because it's at least unsettling if somebody 9 says, "Well, I would like to point out that this 10 paperwork is not in compliance with the rule," and 11 then somebody needs to know, "Well, I need more time 12 to get it fixed up." And some judges might say that 13 we have a court reporter here who can handle this for 14 you; some judges might just scourge you.

15 HONORABLE SCOTT BRISTER: This is not 16 like scaring up a witness. This is getting something 17 sworn to. The courthouse is crawling with notaries.

18 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: That was exactly what 19 I was thinking. You know, you don't have trouble 20 getting a notary at a courthouse.

21 MR. GILSTRAP: This is, in effect, the 22 same rule we have with temporary injunctions.

23 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Yeah.

24 MR. GILSTRAP: You can waive it and we 25 all have been through that dramatic moment where the

1 people say, "Well, it's not verified" and the guys
2 come forward and swear to it. Sometimes it really 3 brings the truth out.

4 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Well, temporary 5 injunctions, you know -- never mind.

6 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Okay. Anything more 7 on this?

8 (No verbal response)

9 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Okay. We're past 10 this issue now, Sarah. Not having voted on it, but --

11 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: Okay. It's 12 okay.

13 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: I'm following your 14 lead on this one. So far, brilliant tactics.

15 (Laughter)

16 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: Issue No. 3 is 17 amendments to the motion. The committee was 18 unanimously of the view that the movant should be able 19 to amend, at any time, the motion, within the 20 discretion of the court. That's reflected in -- on 21 Page 6 Subpart --

22 MR. GILSTRAP: That's the same as (a).

23 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: Yeah. It's 24 supposed to be in (b).

25 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Should that be (b)?

1 MR. HAMILTON: The last sentence in that 2 same paragraph.

3 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: Yes. Thank
4 you. The last sentence on page -- beginning on Page 5
5 and ending on Page 6, as Carl points out, "In all 6 other respects, a motion that is filed pursuant to but 7 not in compliance with this paragraph may be amended 8 with the permission of the court at any time before an 9 order determining the motion is signed." We've 10 actually had cases -- well, we've got different 11 versions of this, it appears.

12 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Yeah. Some of it is 13 at the top of Page 6, in some of these drafts.

14 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: We've actually 15 had cases where someone filed a motion that didn't 16 comply with the rule. It wasn't verified. It didn't 17 contain the assertions of fact that it needed to 18 contain. And a big question was raised, "If a good 19 motion, a motion that complies with the rule is 20 necessary to invoke the trial court's 306a
21 jurisdiction, will a motion that's not in compliance 22 with the rule invoke the trial court's jurisdiction?"
23 And the subcommittee was of the view that, if it's 24 defective, you ought to be able to amend it. And it's 25 the filing of the motion itself that restarts the 1 court's jurisdiction.

2 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Okay. Does anybody
3 have any problems with this?

4 Pam.

5 MS. BARON: It's brilliant.

6 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: It is?

7 MR. ORSINGER: "Brilliant," she said.

8 That's --

9 (Simultaneous discussion)

10 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: You used Justice
11 Hecht's Dawson --

12 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: Yeah --

13 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: -- language --

14 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: -- by memo and 15 input, basically, wrote this rule. And this 16 subcommittee is deeply grateful for their input.

17 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: What's your adjective
18 for it, Bill?

19 MR. ORSINGER: Remarkable.

20 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: What was your 21 adjective about the last stuff? Marvelous, wasn't it?

22 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Remarkable.

23 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Remarkable.

24 (Laughter)

25 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Okay. What's next?

1 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: Issue No. 4, 2 "Date." This may sound a little squirrely, but the 3 subcommittee was of the unanimous view that the movant 4 should have to establish the dates required by the 5 rule. And believe it or not, there are cases out 6 there that basically say -- they can establish some 7 other date or we've had instances in our court where 8 the trial court just doesn't want to find the date and 9 so we keep sending it back and forth from the Court of 10 Appeals down to the trial court and keep saying, "Find 11 the dates that are in the rule." So we thought the 12 rule should say that --

13 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: That the order should 14 say that?

15 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: Well, no. We 16 think both. If you look on my Page 5, some people's 17 Page --

19 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: Is it
20 everybody's Page 5?

21 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Yeah.

22 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: (a), Requisites
23 of Motion, Subsection 3, "the date upon which either 24 the party or its attorney first received the notice
25 required by Paragraph (e)(3) of this rule; or acquired

1 actual knowledge that the judgment or appealable order 2 has been signed." That has to be stated in the 3 motion.

4 And on the next page, (d), the "Order," 5 the trial court's order has to establish those dates.

6 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Got you. Any 7 discussions about those items?

8 HONORABLE SCOTT BRISTER: Don't you mean 9 "the earlier" or "the earliest date upon which," 10 because it just doesn't -- we're at his trial and he's 11 saying, "Well, my attorney didn't find out about this 12 until X date." It doesn't say when the party first 13 found out about it.

14 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: I'm sorry?

15 HONORABLE SCOTT BRISTER: Shouldn't it 16 be "the earliest date upon which either the party or 17 its attorney first"?

18 MR. ORSINGER: What if the party found 19 out --

20 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: Are you talking
21 about "(a), Requisites of the Motion"?

22 HONORABLE SCOTT BRISTER: (a)(3).

23 MR. ORSINGER: The lawyer typically will 24 find out before the client. So what I'm going to do, 25 if I'm an unethical lawyer, is, I'm going to just push

1 the date the client found out about it to try to 2 finesse when I found out about it.

3 HONORABLE SCOTT BRISTER: This is the 4 date the party first heard about it.

5 MR. ORSINGER: You give them the choice
6 of either disclosing the date that the lawyer learned 7 or the date that the client learned.

8 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: I'm sorry.
9 That's not how I read -- are you talking about 10 Subsection (3)?

11 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Yes, (a)(3).

12 MR. ORSINGER: They're all the same.

13 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: "The date upon 14 which either the party or its attorney" --

15 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: "First."

16 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: -- "first" --

17 HONORABLE SCOTT BRISTER: Yeah, but if I
18 swear the date I -- my party first learned about it -- 19 yeah, it's just a drafting suggestion. You put "the 20 earliest date."

21 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: The earliest
22 date.

23 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: The earliest date
24 upon which either --

25 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: There's only

1 one date that either one or the other first acquired 2 notice or knowledge.

3 HONORABLE SCOTT BRISTER: Yeah, I know.
4 But an unscrupulous attorney will pick the latter of 5 the two.

6 MR. ORSINGER: I think each one of them
7 has the date they first learned. And under some 8 interpretations, you're allowing them to choose which 9 one to disclose.

10 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: That's not the 11 intent. The way I think it's written --

12 HONORABLE SCOTT BRISTER: I think we all 13 agree on what the intent is. It's just -- I don't 14 think this says that. I think it can be clarified by 15 saying "the earliest date," but --

16 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Why don't you say, 17 "the earliest date upon which either the party or its 18 attorney received the notice." Strike "first."

19 HONORABLE TOM LAWRENCE: Isn't that the 20 same problem?

21 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: It's the same problem
22 if you say the earliest?

23 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: Okay. Can we 24 get to drafting a little later and just do concept 25 right now?

1 (Laughter)

2 (Simultaneous discussion)

3 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: I do want to 4 cure it, but I want to cure --

5 MR. ORSINGER: It sure is different when 6 it's your own words being discussed.

7 (Laughter)

8 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: I want to get 9 through the concept and then cure the language.

10 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: The strategic 11 decision to press on.

12 (Laughter)

13 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: Okay. The 14 fifth issue --

15 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: This is a masterpiece 16 in progress.

17 (Laughter)

18 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: Well, the 19 masterpiece is going to fall apart right now 20 because -- okay. Never mind.

21 The fifth issue is a deadline for a 22 ruling. The committee, again, was unanimously of the 23 view that no matter how much the trial court doesn't 24 want to find these dates, we really kind of need to go 25 on with the program. So if you look at Page 6,

1 Subpart (c) the trial court is given a ten-day
2 window -- I'm sorry. The movant is given a ten-day 3 window in which to request a hearing. The court is 4 directed to hear the motion as soon as practicable.
5 And we actually didn't establish a deadline for the 6 court to rule on the motion.

7 (Laughter)

8 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: However, important 9 issue that may be.

10 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: However 11 important that may be.

12 (Laughter)

13 MR. GILSTRAP: Unfinished masterpiece.

14 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Yeah. Right. A 15 couple of strokes missing from this --

16 (Laughter)

17 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: Let's go on to 18 6.

19 HONORABLE SCOTT BRISTER: But that's a 20 drafting problem.

21 (Laughter)

22 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: So far, I like this 23 rule a lot.

24 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: I'm sorry. No, 25 it actually does -- no, it doesn't. Okay. We have to

1 fix that. Okay. But does everybody agree that there 2 should be a deadline by which the court should rule?

3 (No verbal response)

4 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: I don't hear any 5 dissent from that.

6 JUSTICE HECHT: Should it be later than 7 at the conclusion of the hearing? I mean, is this 8 something the judge needs to think about for a couple 9 of weeks?

10 HONORABLE SCOTT BRISTER: No.

11 MR. ORSINGER: Yeah, but they're writing
12 it to when they have to sign the written order. So 13 when do you know -- ever know that a lawyer has 14 brought a written order to a state court proceeding?

15 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: What's the 16 consequences if he doesn't do it, too?

17 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: Issue No. 6 on 18 Page 4.

19 (Laughter)

20 MR. ORSINGER: Okay. Sarah, just so
21 you'll know, the numbering on your page, everything 22 I've got is a (1) and an (a). So when you say (b), 23 (c), (6), it means nothing.

24 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: Okay.

25 MR. ORSINGER: I have a whole column

1 full of (a)'s here.

2 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: I'm sitting
3 here looking at exactly what you're looking at and I 4 don't know how you're following it at all.

5 (Simultaneous discussion)

6 (Laughter)

7 PROFESSOR CARLSON: That's part of the 8 strategy.

9 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: But 10 fortunately, I think yours does have boldface type.
11 If you look at the paragraph that begins "Procedure in 12 the Appellate Court" on Page 4.

13 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Page what?

14 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: Well, it's my 15 Page 4.

16 The subcommittee thought about and 17 talked a long, long time about adding a paragraph on 18 what the procedures should be in the Court of Appeals.
19 And we ultimately came to the conclusion that there 20 are too many possibilities on when someone might file 21 a 306a motion when the court looks at the reporter's 22 record and issues an order or a letter.

23 In the Fourth Court of Appeals, we seem 24 to do everything by an order to show cause. We don't 25 send out letters. We don't call people on the 1 telephone. We simply show cause them. In some 2 courts, they like nice friendly letters from the staff 3 attorneys or the clerks and, "Please do this" and 4 "Please do that." In other courts, they actually -- 5 telephone people and say, "We've got a problem with 6 this and you-all need to fix it."

7 We decided we couldn't dictate what the 8 procedure needed to be in the Courts of Appeals. They 9 probably all had their own procedures and it wasn't so 10 important to the process that we tell them what that 11 procedure be as it is to get these dates. We did,
12 however, feel that an amendment was required to TRAP 13 4.5 to clarify that the trial court has continuing 14 jurisdiction to entertain 306a proceedings. We've 15 actually had trial courts that wrote us back and said, 16 "You told me to hold this hearing, but I can't hold 17 this hearing because my plenary power has expired."
18 And this would just be a clarification.

19 So if you look at Page 6, TRAP 4.2 (d), 20 "Continuing Trial Court Jurisdiction. Even after the 21 trial court's plenary power expires, the trial court 22 has continuing jurisdiction to hear and determine 23 motions filed pursuant to Texas Rule of Civil 24 Procedure 306.a.5."

25 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Any comments about

1 that?

2 Bill.

3 (No verbal response)

4 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Stunned him.

5 (Laughter)

6 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: We are on such 7 a roll.

8 MR. HAMILTON: I have a comment about 9 it.

10 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Carl.

11 MR. HAMILTON: Well, it doesn't have if 12 it's filed outside of 90 days. So that's misleading.

13 PROFESSOR CARLSON: But does it have the 14 power to deny it? Doesn't it have the power to deny 15 it?

16 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: The way we've 17 constructed the rule -- and you may disagree with it, 18 but the way we've constructed the rule is that if you 19 file a 306a motion, the trial court's jurisdiction is 20 restarted to the extent of ruling on that motion. And 21 the trial court can grant it, deny it and make this 22 order that finds these dates.

23 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Joan. Just thought
24 I'd call on you.

25 MS. JENKINS: I appreciate that very 1 much. I have nothing to add.

2 (Laughter)

3 MR. ORSINGER: How about subtract?

4 (Laughter)

5 MS. JENKINS: Well, I could do that.

6 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: Those were the 7 substantive issues that the subcommittee looked at.
8 What the subcommittee also, I think, unanimously 9 believed is that the current 306.a.4, as much as some 10 members of the subcommittee thought it was absolutely 11 clear, it's apparently not clear to a whole lot of 12 lawyers, and so we tried to rewrite the rule in a way 13 to make it clear. And that's why I was so concerned 14 about Judge Brister's comment, that it's not clear as 15 to what date we're talking about.

16 A lot of attorneys have said, in oral 17 argument, for example, in a mandamus, they didn't 18 understand that it was the date their client got the 19 notice, if that preceded the date either they got a 20 notice or acquired actual knowledge. So what -- we 21 did rewrite the rule to try to clarify the terms of 22 the rule.

23 So now what I'd like do, since we seem 24 to agree on the concepts, is look at the language of 25 the rule and see if the concept is incorporated in the 1 provision of the rule in a way that everybody thinks 2 is clear.

3 HONORABLE SCOTT BRISTER: And you're 4 going to discuss hearing later?

5 (Laughter)

6 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: Oh, I'm sorry.

7 MR. ORSINGER: Yeah. I have some 8 comments on hearing also.

9 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: I'm sorry.
10 We'll do it now. It was not actually anything that 11 has emerged in the case law as being an unsettled 12 issue, but it was -- it did emerge from the committee 13 as being an issue about which there was disagreement 14 -- some disagreement.

15 I think the case law is fairly uniform 16 now that, whether the rule currently requires it or 17 not, people are holding hearings, oral hearings, 18 evidentiary hearings to prove the things that are 19 required by 306.a.4. There were at least two members 20 of the subcommittee, and perhaps more, who felt that 21 if the assertions of fact in the motion aren't 22 controverted, there's no point in having an oral 23 hearing. And that's, I think, something the committee 24 can -- that's an easy question for the committee to 25 decide, to either be like a 120a motion or we can

1 require an oral hearing that we can --

2 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Richard.

3 MR. ORSINGER: I dislike the requirement 4 that the responding party has to have their sworn 5 evidence attached to a response. These issues will 6 implicate sometimes the testimony of district clerks 7 or assistant district clerks and sometimes staff in 8 the office of the opposing lawyer. And you may be 9 able to get an affidavit from an assistant district
10 clerk or you may not be able to, but I'll guarantee 11 you, you can't get an affidavit from the opposing 12 lawyer's staff.

13 And so in order to even have a shot at 14 getting somebody under oath in front of the judge to 15 answer a direct question, if I can't ever get that 16 opportunity without getting an affidavit from that 17 witness, you've made it impossible for me to refute an 18 allegation using witnesses under the control of the 19 opposition.

20 So I feel like a hearing should be 21 required, that there should be subpoena power. I 22 noticed that you mentioned the discovery process here, 23 which I like, although I'm wondering what discovery is 24 available after the plenary power has been lost and 25 we're having a hearing, you know, within ten days and

1 I don't know whether we're sending in interrogatories
2 or whether we're just issuing subpoenas, so I'm 3 interested to hear what the discovery will be.

4 But my point is, the defending party 5 needs to be able to subpoena people and put them under 6 oath and ask them a direct question, in my opinion.

7 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: We've actually
8 had -- I can't think of the specific case, but we have 9 had a case in which there was extensive discovery on 10 the notice of knowledge question.

11 MR. ORSINGER: I guess by depositions?

12 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: Depositions.
13 Hastily convened depositions.

14 MR. ORSINGER: Well, I mean, I guess all 15 of our discovery rules are pretrial, except we have 16 one rule that permits post-judgment discovery to 17 enforce the judgment. We don't specifically authorize 18 post-plenary power discovery on 306a, but this, 19 inferentially, gives you some kind of discovery.

20 I'm not against it. I think some kind 21 of discovery is okay, but we're inferring that you can 22 take a deposition, because nobody says you can, as I 23 understand the rules. Do you agree?

24 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Yes.

25 MR. ORSINGER: Yeah.

1 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Anybody else?

2 Yeah. Judge Brister.

3 HONORABLE SCOTT BRISTER: Yeah. I'm for 4 doing it by discovery. I'm always hesitant to do
5 satellite litigation just because, you know, court 6 time is a premium, and I'm trying to imagine what's 7 going to happen under withering cross-examination that 8 the person who swore they didn't get it is going to 9 break down and admit that they lied, "Oh, yes. I did 10 get it." Maybe. I just never saw it in my 11 years 11 on the bench.

12 You know, the problem is, if somebody
13 gets on the stand and says, "I didn't get it" or says 14 it in a motion, the law is clear, the fact that you 15 sent it, there's a presumption you got it, but that 16 presumption is overcome when the recipient says, "I 17 didn't get it." And what are you going to controvert 18 that with?

19 But if you give people the right to 20 subpoena and have a nice big courtroom, a nice big 21 trial on this issue, my concern is, this will be used 22 by the wrong people for the wrong purposes. I just 23 don't -- my general feeling is, most of these, you 24 probably have to decide them based on whether the 25 applicant has got a good case or unless they're going

1 to break down and admit they're lying; you're not 2 going to have a mole inside their office who's going 3 to prove that they really did get it. And how much 4 power do you want to give to warring parties to 5 subpoena each other's secretaries and paralegals and 6 officemates to find out what their mailroom procedures 7 are?

8 I just -- true, in most cases, it's not 9 going to be a problem, but the cases it's going to be 10 a problem in, it's going to be a big problem, you 11 know. I just hesitate getting into a right to have it 12 orally. And I don't have any problem if the judge 13 wants to do it by order. If the judge wants to spend 14 their time doing this, that's fine, but I sure would 15 prefer to leave it as the rule the thing you're -- the 16 thing you're entitled to do is discovery and a 17 hearing, but the law in Texas is clear, hearing can be 18 oral or in writing, depending on what the judge says.

19 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Bill Dorsaneo.

20 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: It seems the 21 closest analogy that I can draw to this would be like 22 a Craddock motion, and I don't notice that -- and I 23 think the law pretty clearly there is that you need to 24 have -- maybe you don't need to have a verified motion 25 or one supported by affidavits, but if you do have

1 affidavit support or a verified motion setting forth 2 facts and those are not controverted, that they're 3 presumed to be accurate.

4 I have some question as to what you need
5 to do to controvert or what's sufficient to controvert
6 somebody's affidavits in support of a Craddock motion.
7 I think it's unclear as to whether you can file a 8 notice of controversion or whether you need to 9 controvert in some other manner, like by engaging in 10 discovery or securing an affidavit from some other 11 source or something like that.

12 The problem, though, doesn't seem to 13 come up, you know, all that much, and, you know, my 14 comment on the mechanics of this is that it seems to 15 require a lot. You know, you have a verified motion 16 and then you're going to have -- you can use 17 affidavits and the affidavits have to be -- you know, 18 the affidavits have to be served at least seven days 19 before the hearing. That kind of invites somebody 20 taking a deposition or engaging in discovery and I 21 think almost engineering this to the point where 22 you're inviting a whole big panoply of activities when 23 that might not happen if you didn't go into all this 24 detail about it.

25 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: Well, it's

1 happening, as I understand it, now. The (c) was 2 patterned after a 120a hearing and --

3 HONORABLE SCOTT BRISTER: (c), I
4 wouldn't pattern it after a continuance. You've got 5 to have a verified motion for a continuance, but you 6 don't get a -- and I think you ought to, you know, get 7 an oral hearing where the judge says, you know, "What 8 do you say about that," something like that. I don't 9 have any problem with that, but you wouldn't do 10 discovery on a continuance and you wouldn't --

11 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: Well, maybe 12 it's just my perception, and if the committee
13 disagrees with me, but I think substituting a new date 14 of judgment is a hell of a lot more important than 15 whether you're going to continue a trial for a case.

16 HONORABLE SCOTT BRISTER: That's because 17 you're an appellate lawyer.

18 (Simultaneous discussion)

19 HONORABLE SCOTT BRISTER: You know, the 20 most important thing is a continuance for a trial.

21 (Laughter)

22 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Particularly if 23 you've got prepaid tickets to DisneyWorld.

24 (Laughter)

25 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: In most of

1 these cases, whether the date -- whether you get a new 2 substituted date of judgment is going to determine -- 3 I mean, the reason it's important is because the 4 motion for new trial or the notice of appeal was late 5 by one day or two days or four days, whatever that gap
6 is in the notice or knowledge. So from the appellee's 7 perspective, this could be the most critical part of 8 the appeal, is deciding if there is a substituted date 9 of judgment. So, to me, to compare it to a 10 continuance is not the --

11 HONORABLE SCOTT BRISTER: Yeah, but we 12 bend over backwards to say your appeal is timely.
13 We've got a rule that says we should do so. So aren't 14 we going to at this hearing bend over backwards to try 15 -- I mean, shouldn't we be bending over backwards to 16 try to say your appeal is timely and we're going to 17 decide it on the merits. I mean, that's what the TRAP 18 rules are all about.

19 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: We have a 20 policy in favor of getting to the merits if we can, 21 but nobody can accuse me of -- after Verburgt, of not 22 wanting to get to the merits, but it all keys off of 23 the date of judgment. And if -- that, at least, I 24 think has to be something that either is as a matter 25 of fact or is very carefully considered if it's going

1 to be a substituted date.

2 It's not the same as saying, "If 3 somebody files a motion for extension of time to file 4 a notice of appeal within the 15-day window, we're 5 going to assume -- or files a new notice of appeal -- 6 a notice of appeal, we're going to imply a motion."
7 This is much more serious than that.

8 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Frank.

9 MR. GILSTRAP: I like the proposal
10 because it is tracking the special appearance 11 procedure, and, you know, we've got several of these 12 type proceedings. I think the Supreme Court recently 13 said, "This is how you also determine a plea of 14 jurisdiction," and -- Bland against Blue Independent 15 School District.

16 And there's several other instances, and 17 it seems to me now, we've got this particular type of 18 hearing. It happens in several instances. Everybody 19 knows what the rules are and it seems to make more 20 sense to do it that way than to create some type of 21 special hearing with its own rules and own burdens for 22 this particular instance.

23 HONORABLE SCOTT BRISTER: What part of 24 this -- I read Bland to say, "You've got to do 25 whatever kind of hearing you need under the 1 circumstances." It seems, to me, the circumstances of 2 this is whether somebody is going to swear -- is 3 whether two people swear when they first got the 4 motion. And I'd just be surprised if we need a whole 5 bunch of cross-examination and discovery for that.

6 MR. GILSTRAP: What you do is, you know, 7 you have -- you can do it by affidavits and if they're 8 disputed affidavits, then you have to have a hearing 9 and the judge has to decide based on the credibility 10 of the witnesses. I mean, I see this as the same type 11 of procedure.

12 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Richard.

13 MR. ORSINGER: To address Scott's 14 concern, I don't have a problem -- if you have the 15 opportunity to do discovery and you do it and you're 16 satisfied that the affidavits are truthful, then, you 17 know, you don't put up a contest and you don't have a 18 hearing. But I would not like a situation where the 19 defending party has to take, on faith, the affidavit 20 of the lawyer who probably screwed up.

21 And there will be lawyers who know that 22 they're going to get sued for malpractice if they 23 don't get this case into the appealable status. And 24 if they know that there's no depositions or no hearing 25 in which anyone is going to inquire, some lawyer is

1 going to say, "I first learned of this on such and 2 such a date," when he knows full well that someone in 3 the mailroom opened that envelope on another date.
4 And unless there's some, at least, plausible fear that 5 someone will catch you if you're doing that, I really 6 think it's just going to be --

7 HONORABLE SCOTT BRISTER: How in the 8 world is the guy in the mailroom -- maybe that's 9 changed now. Maybe people are tracking their mail 10 more carefully, but how in the world is anybody except 11 the attorney going to know when we got this notice.
12 People in the mailroom are not going to recall. The 13 secretaries are not --

14 MR. ORSINGER: Well, maybe I should have 15 said legal assistant.

16 HONORABLE SCOTT BRISTER: The secretary
17 is not going to know.

18 MR. ORSINGER: In my office, my legal 19 assistant knows more than I do.

20 (Laughter)

21 HONORABLE SCOTT BRISTER: Well, then 22 it's going to be you or your legal assistant swearing 23 to the thing.

24 MR. ORSINGER: No, no. It would be me 25 swearing. I mean, I wouldn't do this, but if I was of 1 this kind, I would say, "I first learned about it, you 2 know, on Monday" and I would ignore the fact that my 3 legal assistant learned about it the previous Friday.

4 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: You just think that 5 way; you're not one.

6 (Laughter)

7 MR. ORSINGER: Let me tell you
8 something, you want your divorce lawyer to be 9 paranoid.

10 (Laughter)

11 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: That's a good point.
12 Bill.

13 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Well, the 120a
14 model, I'd say, you know, is a serviceable model, but, 15 really, there are problems with 120a. But aside from 16 that, let's just work through this.

17 You said, "The court shall determine the 18 motion on the basis of pleadings." What pleadings are 19 you talking about? You're talking about the motion?

20 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: Motion and 21 response.

22 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Response?

23 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: If there's a
24 response.

25 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: All right. Now,

1 what if there's no response?

2 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: Well, then
3 there's only one set of facts that's before the court.

4 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: And the verified
5 pleadings, that takes care of it? Game over?

6 MR. ORSINGER: No. I don't agree with 7 that. I think there should be a hearing unless 8 Scott's right and the judge doesn't have to have a 9 hearing.

10 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: See, in the 120a
11 context, it says "pleadings," but the special 12 appearance is really a responsive pleading to a 13 petition. So it's kind of a different context. All 14 right?

15 Now, if I'm reading this, I would say,
16 "Well, this probably means I need to file a response," 17 even though that's not maybe so clear elsewhere, 18 "because I need to controvert the verified assertions 19 in the motion." Okay?

20 I mean, I don't know for sure whether 21 the pleadings are evidence, the equivalent of 22 affidavits or not. If they are, then how does it 23 work? Is it like venue then? If I deny the 24 allegations in the verified motion or in the motion 25 then they need to get -- then their next shot is to 1 get an affidavit and they need to give me that seven 2 days before so I can controvert that in some manner, 3 probably by taking discovery?

4 I think by just moving language from one 5 place -- frankly, in the 120a context, I mean, it's 6 not so clear as to what you do with these affidavits 7 certainly seven days before the hearing. Okay? And I 8 guess the suggestion is, if you want to do something 9 about them, you'd better get on with it, take some 10 sort of, you know, discovery or do something to permit 11 you to cope with that affidavit or perhaps to assert 12 that the affidavits that you need can't -- you know, 13 you can't get them or something. 120a is not so 14 mechanically clear either, you know, I don't believe.

15 If it's the idea that we need -- if 16 affidavits will do; we don't need live testimony.
17 Okay? Then we need -- and if the idea is that you 18 don't want to accept their affidavit without 19 cross-examination, you ought be entitled to get an 20 affidavit and decide, you know, whether you're going 21 to take it as true or controvert it. If you're going 22 to controvert it, we could just say, "File a notice of 23 controversion and then they have to put on live 24 testimony" or we can say, "To controvert it, you need 25 to take a deposition." What's better?

1 HONORABLE SCOTT BRISTER: Bill, why is 2 it more like a continuance hearing. I mean, special 3 appearance has to be complicated because everything 4 you've ever done with relation to the state gets into 5 it. But why is it like a continuance? The question 6 is, "Can I be there or not?" Simple question, "Did I 7 get it or not?"

8 Why is it the paradigm? Certainly under 9 the current rule, a paradigm is more like a motion for 10 continuance. "I swear to it. And if something sounds 11 fishy, we'll look into it," but, I mean, special 12 appearances are a mess, I agree.

13 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Nina.

14 MS. CORTELL: I just think the stakes
15 are much higher. I think Bill's original Craddock 16 motion is much closer. You're losing your case, and 17 that's just different from having a trial date set.

18 HONORABLE SCOTT BRISTER: No, no.
19 You're trying to save your case.

20 MS. CORTELL: Well, either which way.
21 It depends on which side of it you're on.

22 HONORABLE SCOTT BRISTER: Yeah. And the 23 person who's wanting to do all of the discovery is 24 wanting to knock somebody out on a procedural point.

25 (Laughter)

1 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: Wait a minute.
2 Wait a minute. This isn't just a procedural point.

3 HONORABLE SCOTT BRISTER: What is it?

4 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: It's a missed
5 deadline.

6 Our court reporter is bone weary or 7 finger weary, so let's take a little break. Ten 8 minutes. Then we'll come back to this brilliant 9 campaign to approve 306a.

10 (Recess)

11 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Okay. Well, we've 12 got more agenda items depending on how much longer 13 this is going to take. Fulton v. Finch, is that a 14 long-time deal? Do we have to talk about that for a 15 long time?

16 MR. WATSON: I'd say an hour I think.

17 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: It's hard to draft 18 it, but I think the policy point is probably pretty 19 easy to talk through.

20 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Okay. And then we've 21 got the service of process -- where did Orsinger go?
22 Can't get very far on this issue with Sarah leaving, 23 can we?

24 PROFESSOR CARLSON: She just said moot
25 the question, I think.

1 (Laughter)

2 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Seriously, the 3 Fulton v. Finch thing could be talked about, and it 4 involves partially the history of 329b.

5 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Yeah. We're going to 6 try to talk about it.

7 MR. WATSON: Today?

8 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: We're going to try,
9 if we get through this other thing.

10 MR. GILSTRAP: There's an incentive.

11 (Laughter)

12 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Okay. So where are 13 we, Sarah?

14 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: I think we were 15 on the hearing.

16 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Okay. There's a
17 split here, obviously, between Judge Brister's view 18 and your view. I mean, I don't want to personalize 19 it, but --

20 (Laughter)

21 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: That seems to be 22 where that -- the two people that most eloquently 23 articulated the opposite considerations.

24 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: I don't know
25 that I even articulated. I think Orsinger actually

1 did a much better job than I did.

2 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Okay. So who 3 believes that the rule should take into account
4 Judge Brister's ideas, that it just ought to be less 5 complicated, less formal? How did you put it, Judge?

6 HONORABLE SCOTT BRISTER: Just less 7 stuff.

8 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Right. So how many 9 people adhere to the Brister view of this rule? Raise 10 your hand.

11 (Laughter)

12 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: That would be 13 Brister.

14 MR. TIPPS: It's clear to the Brister
15 position.

16 (Laughter)

17 HONORABLE DAVID PEEPLES: Never let 18 someone else state your position either.

19 (Laughter)

20 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: And how many adhere 21 to the Duncan/Orsinger view?

22 (Simultaneous discussion)

23 HONORABLE DAVID PEEPLES: Chip, we need 24 to know what those are a little bit more than that.
25 Are we talking about a right to an oral hearing or

1 discovery or what?

2 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Judge, it was my 3 understanding, it was mostly the whether or not it was 4 going to be done pretty much just on the sworn motion 5 and affidavits as opposed to the option, not the 6 requirement, but the option to have an oral hearing 7 and more formal discovery.

8 HONORABLE DAVID PEEPLES: I'd like to 9 support what I heard Richard Orsinger say, which is, 10 the person responding to this ought to have the right 11 to get those people in court and examine them under 12 oath with the judge there. And I just don't think 13 it's going to be that many hearings, but, you know, 14 affidavits ought not to prove it without some 15 scrutiny.

16 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Yeah. So I think the 17 Peeples/Duncan/Orsinger articulation of this view has 18 carried the day.

19 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: I would add, a 20 further consideration, I think, is that we're talking 21 about changing the date of judgment, conceivably, 22 after the time for appealing and filing a motion for a 23 new trial has expired and after that attorney has 24 theoretically been let go.

25 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Got you.

1 Bill.

2 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: I would just 3 suggest that maybe the Surgitek model, Civil Practice
4 Remedies Code 15.003, would be better than the 120a
5 model, because it does talk about pleadings 6 controverting and then the use of live testimony if 7 live testimony is necessary, et cetera. It seems to 8 be a latter day generation of the same thought 9 process.

10 I think affidavits ought to be useful -- 11 ought to be, you know, available for use, but I don't 12 think, as Richard said, that you should be stuck with 13 somebody else's affidavit without being able to 14 controvert.

15 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: You think you
16 should or you shouldn't?

17 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Shouldn't.

18 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Should not.

19 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: You should be 20 able to get them into court and cross-examine them?

21 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Right.

22 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Yes.

23 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Yeah. Just about 24 everybody thinks that.

25 Okay. Where do we go now?

1 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: Where I'd like
2 to go is to start at the beginning of 104. And if 3 somebody has a problem with the discrete subsection, 4 either because of the rewrite for clarification or 5 because of the implementation of one of the concepts 6 we've discussed -- I mean, the most obvious example is 7 that the committee agreed there ought to be a time 8 limit for the judge to sign an order emanating from 9 the hearing, and that particular subsection doesn't 10 contain a time limit, but it could be something that 11 is less obvious than that with a -- I think it was 12 Judge Brister who brought out on (a)(3) on Page 5 that 13 he doesn't interpret that to mean what we have stated 14 our intention to be. So if we could just go through 15 subsection by subsection.

16 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Okay. Let's do it.
17 Are you on 104(e)(3)? Is that the first change?

18 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: Yes.

19 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Does anybody have any 20 comments on that?

21 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: Nina did have 22 one comment, and that is that we delete the "e" in 23 judgment in the second line and the subcommittee 24 unanimously wants to adopt that proposed amendment.

25 MR. HAMILTON: Delete what?

1 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: The "e" in 2 judgment. I was lapsing back to my British heritage.

3 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: It's not going to be 4 "judgement."

5 MR. HAMILTON: So it's going to read 6 "the earliest date upon which" --

7 MS. JENKINS: No. "Judgement." She's 8 just changing the spelling.

9 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: It's a typo. It's 10 just a typo.

11 MR. HAMILTON: I know that, but, I mean, 12 we're talking about the change in (a)(3).

13 MR. TIPPS: No. We're talking about
14 (e)(3).

15 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: "E" as in elephant.
16 Okay. Rule 104(e), as in elephant, (3), 17 any comments about the changes there?

18 (No verbal response)

19 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Everybody okay with 20 that?

21 (No verbal response)

22 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: All right.
23 Unanimously, that will be approved.

24 All right. (5)(a) was the next change.
25 Correct?

1 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: Uh-huh.

2 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: That would be,
3 actually, (e) (5) (a). Right?

4 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: Should be.

5 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Okay. (e) (5) (a), any 6 problems with that?

7 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: I would point
8 out on this, one of the points of clarification from 9 the old rule was that the committee understood the 10 intent of the old rule to be that it's not notice of 11 the judgment in a constructive notice sense, but it is 12 the clerk's notice that acts as the trigger.

13 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Okay. Nothing in 14 (e) (5) (a), the preamble. How about (e) (5) (a) (1), any 15 problems with that?

16 (No verbal response)

17 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: (e) (5) (a) (2),
18 recognizing that some of our drafts have misnumbering, 19 but (e) (5) (a) (2) would be "That neither the party nor 20 its attorney received the notice," any problems with 21 that?

22 (No verbal response)

23 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: If I'm going too
24 fast, let me know. (e) (5) (a) (3), this is what 25 Judge Brister raised, and I think he raises a good

1 point here.

2 Stephen.

3 MR. TIPPS: I've got an alternative
4 suggestion to address the same problem. Upon 5 rereading this, it's -- I think it's very clear from 6 (e) (a) (2) that when it says "neither the party nor its 7 attorney," that whichever one receives it first, 8 that's the relevant date. I think the ambiguity is 9 created in (e) (5) (a) (3) by the inclusion of the word 10 "either." And I think we can solve the problem just 11 by taking out "either." At least that's a way to do 12 it.

13 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: What do you think, 14 Sarah?

15 MR. ORSINGER: I like that.

16 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: I think that's a good 17 fix.

18 Judge Brister, does that seem good to 19 you?

20 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: Correct me if 21 I'm wrong, Stephen, but I thought the reason we put 22 "either" in is because some people -- some attorneys 23 had not understood that it was the date that "either" 24 the attorney "or" the client received the notice.

25 MR. TIPPS: But my point is that that

1 is -- that point is made by Paragraph (2), where it 2 says "neither." And having said "neither," you don't 3 need to say "either."

4 PROFESSOR CARLSON: Why not just put 5 "the date upon which the party and its attorney 6 first"?

7 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: Because it's 8 not "and."

9 MR. ORSINGER: Yeah. It better be "or."

10 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: We're looking 11 for a hypothetical. Attorney withdraws and clerk 12 sends the notice of judgment to the client. Some time 13 after that notice is received by the client, the 14 attorney acquires actual knowledge of the judgement.
15 It's the first date -- right -- that we're concerned 16 with. And I'm -- we're all happy to change the 17 language, but that's the common misconception amongst 18 attorneys, is that that date that the client received 19 the notice is still going to be the trigger date.

20 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Judge Brister, if we 21 strike the word "either," does that get it done?

22 HONORABLE SCOTT BRISTER: I don't think
23 so.

24 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: No. Okay.

25 HONORABLE SCOTT BRISTER: Better, just

1 take the first off the end and put in as the second 2 word.

3 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: So "The first date
4 upon which either the party of its attorney received"?
5 Sarah, would that be acceptable?

6 (No response)

7 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: It would read, "The 8 first date upon which either the party or its attorney 9 received the notice required," et cetera, et cetera.

10 MR. ORSINGER: Wouldn't earliest be 11 better?

12 HONORABLE SCOTT BRISTER: Either one.

13 MR. ORSINGER: "Earliest" is better than 14 "first."

15 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Judge Brister, 16 "earliest"?

17 HONORABLE SCOTT BRISTER: That's fine.

18 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Say, "The earliest 19 date upon which the party or its attorney first."

20 HONORABLE SCOTT BRISTER: Why do you 21 need both?

22 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: Because you've 23 got an option of two things in (a) and (b). And what 24 we want to know is which -- as between (a) and b, 25 which happened first? And as between attorney and

1 party --

2 HONORABLE SCOTT BRISTER: "The earliest 3 date" is going to be in here, though.

4 MR. ORSINGER: Scott, you have to 5 remember, we're writing this rule for people who can't 6 understand it.

7 (Laughter)

8 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: Well, I'd like 9 to second what you said, we're writing the rule for 10 people who don't understand the rule as it's currently 11 written, which, in my view, is perfectly clear.

12 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Okay. "The earliest 13 date upon which either the party or its attorney first 14 received the notice required."

15 MR. TIPPS: That's saying it a lot of 16 different ways.

17 MR. ORSINGER: What if we put 18 "absolutely" in front of first?

19 (Laughter)

20 HONORABLE SCOTT BRISTER: As long as 21 Brian Garner is going to take it out later, that's 22 fine with me.

23 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: All right. So we got 24 that fixed. What's next (e) (5) -- the numbering is 25 confusing.

1 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: There is no
2 number -- are you talking about "If an unverified 3 motion is filed"?

4 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Yes.

5 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: There's no --

6 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Is that part of 7 (e) (5) (3)?

8 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: It's the second 9 paragraph of (a).

10 MR. HAMILTON: Just a matter of 11 housekeeping, that last sentence that we referred to 12 about the amendment probably ought to be under the 13 next Paragraph (b) because it says "Time to File 14 Motion, Amendments."

15 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Yeah. I'm having --

16 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: Can I suggest 17 the opposite, that we put amendments under "Requisites 18 of Motion"?

19 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Hang on for a second,
20 though. We're on (e) (5) (a), and so far we have a (1), 21 (2) and a (3). Correct?

22 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: Uh-huh.

23 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: All right. Now, this 24 paragraph that shows up here, "If an unverified motion 25 is filed," what is that under?

1 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: It's not under 2 any of them. (a) has a colon --

3 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Yes.

4 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: -- as to what 5 the requisites of the motion should be.

6 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Right.

7 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: The paragraph
8 that begins, "If an unverified motion is filed" 9 relates to what happens if the motion doesn't contain 10 those. I'll find another rule that goes with that.
11 It's a common rule writing technique.

12 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: So we have an (e) (5)
13 (a), but no (e) (5) (b)?

14 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: No. (b) is on 15 the next page.

16 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: That's "Time to File
17 Motion"?

18 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: Uh-huh.

19 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Okay. That's (b).

20 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: But I think 21 Carl is right, that we need to put amendments -- we 22 need to make it "Requisites of Motion, Amendments."

23 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Okay.

24 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: And then take 25 "Amendments" out of "Time to File Motion."

1 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Okay. All right.

2 HONORABLE JAN PATTERSON: One small
3 grammatical on Paragraph (2), Sarah, that third line, 4 instead of "nor acquired actual knowledge." I think 5 that should be "or acquired actual knowledge."

6 MR. TIPPS: (e) (5) (a) (2).

7 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: (e) (5) (a) (2).

8 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: "Or."

9 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: "Or," okay.
10 All right. The hanging Chad of a 11 paragraph that says "If an unverified motion is filed 12 and the respondent does not object" --

13 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: I think
14 "hanging Chad" was a brilliant use of that term.

15 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Any problem with that 16 paragraph?

17 (No verbal response)

18 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Bill, any problem
19 with that paragraph?

20 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: I was doing 21 something else.

22 (Laughter).

23 MR. ORSINGER: We were talking about 24 Rule 229b, but we'll talk about that later.

25 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Okay. Nobody has got

1 any problem with that. So now we are on to (e) (5) (b), 2 which is "Time to File Motion," strike the word
3 "Amendments." Any problem with (e) (5) (b)?

4 (No verbal response)

5 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: This strategy is 6 working very well?

7 (Laughter).

8 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: All right. No
9 problem has got any problem with that. (e) (5) (c), 10 "Hearing," any problems with that?

11 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: Oh, come on. I 12 feel very deceptive.

13 Bill.

14 MR. TIPPS: I like Dorsaneo's Civil 15 Practice and Remedies code language better than that 16 we have.

17 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: You liked what?

18 MR. TIPPS: I liked Bill's suggestion
19 that we use the language from the Civil Practice 20 Remedies Code rather than 120a.

21 HONORABLE SCOTT BRISTER: Where was 22 that, Bill?

23 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Well, it's really 24 in the court's opinion --

25 MR. TIPPS: Venue, isn't it?

1 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: -- in the Surgitek
2 case saying how a 15.003 hearing should be conducted.

3 MR. GILSTRAP: What's a 15.003 hearing
4 again?

5 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: If the plaintiff
6 can independently establish venue, how you establish 7 that you're entitled to be in this county with the 8 other plaintiffs because of essential need, among 9 other things.

10 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: And is that 11 acceptable to Mr. Orsinger?

12 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: You know, without 13 seeing the language in front of me, I'm not going to 14 take a position, but if I had to go blind, I'll go 15 allow with Bill.

16 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: All I'm saying is 17 just look at that. I think it's a more advanced 18 version.

19 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: How about if we 20 rewrite (c) and we'll give the committee two versions 21 of (c) at the next meeting.

22 MR. ORSINGER: The only thing is, I
23 don't know -- Bill didn't say anything about 24 discovery; I do like the idea of some mention of 25 discovery. And there's no mention of discovery on the 1 venue hearing. Right?

2 (No verbal response)

3 MR. ORSINGER: Well, look at it. But 4 anyway, I think the concept of mentioning discovery is 5 important.

6 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Okay. So this is -- 7 (e)(5)(c) will get talked about at the next meeting.
8 All right. How about (e)(5) --

9 MR. TIPPS: Chairman?

10 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Yes.

11 MR. TIPPS: Question on that. Are we 12 going to include some language concerning the time 13 within which the court has to conduct a hearing?

14 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Yeah. What about 15 that, Sarah?

16 MR. TIPPS: You had already mentioned
17 that that was missing.

18 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: No. I think
19 what's missing is the time within which the rule --

20 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Got a rule, that's 21 right.

22 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: The current (c)
23 says, "The court must hear the motion as soon as 24 practicable."

25 HONORABLE SCOTT BRISTER: And that's the

1 same as we did on recusal. Right?

2 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: We couldn't 3 come up with anything better because we started 4 talking about, like, judges in South Texas that 5 wander.

6 MR. ORSINGER: What they want, they want
7 a ruling.

8 MR. TIPPS: What about your deadline for 9 a ruling?

10 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: Right. That I
11 think should be (d).

12 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: In (e) (5) (d).

13 MR. TIPPS: Oh, that goes in another
14 place. Okay, fine.

15 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Okay. So we're done
16 with (e) (5) (c). Now we're onto (e) (5) (d) and we've 17 already identified that there should be a provision in 18 there to deal with how quickly the judge should rule.
19 And you're going to work on that. Right?

20 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: Well, do people
21 have suggestions?

22 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Do people have 23 suggestions now?

24 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: I think there
25 has to be a long enough period of time for the movant

1 to get an order to the court or we could just assume 2 that the movant is going to bring an order to the 3 court and they can make whatever modifications are 4 required at the hearing. So maybe the trial judges 5 should suggest when they think an appropriate time to 6 rule would be.

7 MR. HAMILTON: Ten days. No more than 8 ten days.

9 HONORABLE DAVID PEEPLES: That sounds
10 like a long time.

11 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: What does?

12 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: Ten days.

13 HONORABLE SCOTT BRISTER: How about that 14 day? I mean, if that was me, I could put this on the 15 Xerox machine, and then at end of 1 put "no" or "yes."
16 And then on the end of 2 put "July the 21st." There 17 you go.

18 (Laughter)

19 HONORABLE DAVID PEEPLES: Here's the 20 thing about number of days, it's not enforceable.
21 What are you going to do? So why not just make it 22 "promptly" and be done with it.

23 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: Okay.
24 "Must" -- do you mind if I split my infinitive -- my 25 verb and say "must promptly sign"?

1 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Fine.

2 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Okay. Any other
3 comments about (e) (5) (d)?

4 (No verbal response)

5 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: We're getting 6 close.

7 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Okay. TRAP 4.2(d).

8 MR. ORSINGER: Before you do that, we've 9 got to have parallelism now between "the earliest date 10 upon which." We edited the motion allegations, that 11 "the earliest date upon which the party or its 12 attorney first received" and here I am saying --

13 HONORABLE SCOTT BRISTER: Right.

14 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: Done.

15 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Okay. TRAP Rule
16 4.2(d).

17 MR. ORSINGER: I don't like the use of 18 the word "continuing" there because, in fact, it isn't 19 continuing. It's kind of intermittent. I think we 20 ought to strike the word "continuing" and just say 21 "the court has jurisdiction to hear and determine."

22 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Sarah?

23 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: That's fine.

24 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Okay. No problem.

25 HONORABLE DAVID PEEPLES: Can we strike

1 the word "even" at the beginning of that sentence? Do 2 we need that? Does that belong in the rule?

3 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: The word is -- "even"
4 is gone? Going, going --

5 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: Gone.

6 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: -- gone. Okay. So
7 now it will read, "After the trial court's plenary 8 power expires, the trial court has jurisdiction to 9 hear and determine motions filed pursuant 10 to...306.a.5."

11 MR. ORSINGER: Well, let me say this 12 about the "even." Is it possible someone might file 13 one of these before the court has lost plenary power?

14 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: Absolutely.

15 MR. ORSINGER: Then the "even" serves 16 the function of saying, "We all know you can do it 17 through the period of plenary power, but you can even 18 do it after plenary power expires."

19 Right now if you just say "After" --

20 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: Yeah. It 21 doesn't highlight that you can't do it within the 22 plenary power.

23 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Coming, coming back, 24 "even"? "Even" back in?

25 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: Yeah.

1 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Judge Peeples? Okay.

2 HONORABLE DAVID PEEPLES: Sure.

3 MR. ORSINGER: It does sound a little 4 impreganistic, you know.

5 (Laughter)

6 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: That aside --

7 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: Well, I think 8 our strategy --

9 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: I'll tell you what,
10 who would have thunk it?

11 Okay. So that's it. Right? So you're 12 going to come back --

13 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: What we'll do
14 is bring a clean copy of the amended rule and two 15 versions of Paragraph (c) on the "Hearing".

16 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: And you're going to 17 add the language on (d) as well -- (e) (5) (d), the 18 parallelism and the --

19 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: Oh, yeah.
20 We'll bring a clean copy of the rule with this.

21 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Okay. Nicely done, 22 Sarah, although I wouldn't have given odds when we 23 started.

24 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: You didn't have 25 faith in me.

1 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: I've got great faith
2 in you. Let's see if you can get through Fulton v.
3 Finch in the next --

4 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: I can't, and I
5 will punt to Skip.

6 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Punt to Skip?

7 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: Yeah. He's 8 done the most constructive work on this, I think.

9 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: All right. Skip.

10 MR. WATSON: I think Dorsaneo wanted to 11 be in on this, but --

12 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Well, Dorsaneo is an 13 adult who could have stayed if he wanted to.

14 MR. WATSON: Got you.

15 MR. ORSINGER: Not considering his 16 personal circumstance.

17 (Laughter)

18 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Which we won't go 19 into on the record.

20 MR. WATSON: Does everybody have the 21 original e-mail from Justice Hecht setting up the 22 problem with Fulton v. Finch in an order? You need 23 that. You may or may not need my memo. You also 24 probably need 329b open, if you've got access to it.
25 The problem with this is the setup. And just bear

1 with me as we get through the setup so you can 2 understand the problem.

3 First of all, the memo addresses the 4 question as posed by the Supreme Court through Justice
5 Hecht, and that is whether the rule of Porter v. Vick 6 should be changed by amendment to the rule. And the 7 reason would be because Ferguson v. Globe Times and 8 other cases have subsequently held that a motion for 9 new trial may not be ungranted and a perfectly good 10 judgment reinstated beyond the 75-day period of 11 plenary power set forth in Rule 329b. Why? Because 12 Rule 329b does not expressly provide a right to 13 ungrant a motion for new trial. Instead, it 14 extends -- 329b(e) extends plenary power for 30 days 15 if a motion for new trial is overruled. And, 16 obviously, it hasn't been overruled if it's been 17 granted.

18 So you may grant the motion for new -- 19 it says that you may grant the motion for new trial or 20 modify a judgment if the motion for new trial is 21 overruled. The only way I know to go through this is 22 to go through quickly the procession of Supreme Court 23 cases that got us here and show you how we got off the 24 track.

25 First, in '61, in Fulton v. Finch, the 1 court at that time was dealing with the version of 2 329b that says "All motions for new trial must be 3 determined within 45 days after the motion was filed," 4 and the court went on to then hold -- this is not the 5 rule -- "a motion cannot be undetermined outside of 6 the 45 days without destroying the rule." That's the 7 court's language.

8 Well, then the rule was amended. And no 9 longer does it say that a motion for new trial must be 10 finally determined within a specific period. It just 11 says if it's not decided within 75 days, it's 12 overruled.

13 So along came Porter v. Vick in '94, and 14 it is a particularly egregious case to set up this 15 problem. In Porter v. Vick, we had a trial to the 16 court. The court is the one making the decisions.
17 There is a motion for new trial filed -- judge enters 18 judgment. Okay? Motion for new trial filed. Judge 19 who tried the case and entered judgment on his own 20 findings can't hear the motion for new trial; so it's 21 assigned to a visiting judge.

22 The lawyer opposing the motion for new 23 trial can't be at the hearing because he's tied up in 24 trial across the hall. He calls the judge who tried 25 the case and said, "I'm tied up. I can't be there."

1 That judge's office does not relay that word to the 2 visiting judge deciding the motion for new trial who 3 promptly grants the new trial. That then gets back to 4 the judge who originally tried the case and said, 5 "This is the judgment I want entered." He gets back, 6 in effect, a default granting of a new trial of his 7 judgment.

8 He says, "No. I'm going to ungrant the 9 granting of the new trial and re-enter my judgment 10 that I intended to enter." What came up was a 11 per curiam mandamus saying that, under the rule of 12 Fulton v. Finch, that order ungranting the granting of 13 the motion for new trial was void. Why? Because the 14 ungranting occurred after the 75 days of plenary 15 power, even though there was no longer any language in 16 329b saying, "You've got to act, if you act at all, 17 within 45 days." And the court, in Porter, went to 18 the holding of Fulton without talking about the 19 reasoning and said -- here, let me find it here.

20 In Fulton, the court held "any order 21 vacating an order granting a new trial which was 22 signed outside the court's period of plenary power 23 over the original judgment is void." That's the 24 holding of the case in Porter. Well, then along came 25 a series of cases, the most recent of which was

1 Ferguson v. Globe Times, and they -- the specific 2 problem in Ferguson v. Globe Times was, there was a 3 judgment entered, a timely motion for new trial. The 4 motion for new trial was granted within the 75 days.
5 They came back, looked at it again, under a motion to 6 reconsider and the judge says, "You know, you're 7 right. I've got a perfectly good verdict. I should 8 not have set aside that judgment. There's no reason 9 to retry this. I was wrong when I set aside the 10 judgment by granting a new trial. So I'm going to 11 ungrant the motion for new trial."

12 Well, that order ungranting the motion 13 for new trial occurred, not during the 75 days but 14 within the 30 days after the 75 days provided by 15 329b(e) as is presently codified. And the question 16 was -- a very narrow issue, "Did he have the power to 17 ungrant in the 35 plenary plenary -- I mean, in the 18 30-day plenary plenary power after the 75 days?" The 19 answer was "No."

20 The specific holding of Ferguson was,
21 "The trial court may only vacate an order granting a 22 new trial during the period when he continues to have 23 plenary power," period, citing Porter v. Vick and 24 Fulton v. Finch. In other words, carrying that old 25 holding forward saying that you can't do anything to

1 ungrant a motion for new trial outside plenary power 2 and plenary power only continues for 75 days after the 3 date the motion is signed.

4 Now, the court said -- well, let me
5 just -- the easiest way is, I can just set it up for 6 you. There is the appellee's argument in Ferguson.
7 Appellee's argument that the rule does not 8 specifically state that the trial court may ungrant a 9 motion for new trial during the 30-day extension 10 period provided by 329b(e) because it's unnecessary to 11 do so. They reasoned that once the trial court 12 initially grants a new trial motion, which is an 13 interlocutory order, the trial court invests itself 14 with full authority over the case until a final 15 judgment is eventually entered. In other words -- and 16 this is why Dorsaneo wanted in on this -- the concept 17 is not what plenary power used to be, both 18 conceptually and in time, but what is it today.

19 Plenary power today is a period of time 20 in which you must undo a judgment or it's going to be 21 forever final. You can monkey with the judgment 22 you've entered or it's going to be final. It has 23 nothing to do with what happens when that judgment 24 goes away because you granted a motion for new trial; 25 therefore, the plenary power and reason it exists goes

1 away. Obviously, the court has full power to try the 2 case to do discovery, to grant a motion for summary 3 judgment, and one would think, re-enter judgment on an 4 existing verdict after plenary power and the reason it 5 exists went away when the judgment ceased to exist.
6 But the Amarillo court says, "There is some logic to 7 this argument; however, we believe that the better 8 reasoning is to interpret Rule 329b(e) according to 9 its plain meaning, the rule is clear and unambiguous 10 in stating the types of powers to which it applies.
11 The court should not construe them to mean something 12 other than their plain words unless the application of 13 the literal language would produce an absurd result."

14 Now, my memo asked: Is it not an absurd
15 result to say that because a trial judge figures out 16 that a judgment should be entered on a verdict and 17 that he or she made a mistake in setting aside the 18 original judgment on that verdict, that he should go 19 through an entire new trial when there's a perfectly 20 good verdict there to enter judgment on just because 21 75 days expired? That clearly is not what 329b(e) 22 says.

23 The only question, frankly, that was in 24 my mind was: It was fully briefed -- I mean, the 25 court in Ferguson asked for briefs. I wrote and got

1 the briefs before the Supreme Court. And everything
2 I'm saying was briefed. I mean, it was out there.
3 And it, obviously, could have been corrected by a PC
4 opinion even, just saying, "Porter v. Vick was a 5 mistake," or whatever, you know, "at that time."

6 And, to me, the rule is reasonably 7 clear, in that this is -- the reasoning of Ferguson is 8 not a correct reasoning, but it's got Porter backing 9 it up saying, "You can't do anything toward ungranting 10 a motion for new trial after 75 days."

11 So I've got, you know, a short proposal
12 in my memo of how to redraft it; to say that Dorsaneo 13 had a better proposal, I thought, of just adding a 14 sentence saying, you know, "In effect, this does not 15 in any way affect the power to ungrant a motion for a 16 new trial or to re-enter a judgment."

17 The question and what you're going to 18 come down to is this -- and it's a policy question, 19 assuming if people agree with what I've just said. If 20 you do, the policy question is going to be: Okay.
21 The court has complete power after a judgment has been 22 set aside by -- to grant a motion for new trial to do 23 whatever it wants, anything it could have done before 24 then. But at what point do we say, "Okay. We've 25 invested too much in this new trial," to say, "Oops,

1 King's X. I don't like the way this trial is going.
2 Enter judgment on the old verdict"?

3 And so in the memo I just punted on that 4 and said arbitrarily -- I put in brackets, you know, 5 "It can re-enter judgment, modify, whatever it wants 6 to do, the old judgment, if any time up to" -- and 7 again, arbitrarily I pick, "the beginning of the new 8 trial or, slash, the end of evidence in the new 9 trial." And I don't know how to pick a time when you 10 finally do say, "Okay. Judge, the time to pull the 11 string and go back" -- you know, "bring the yo-yo back 12 and do what should have been done a year ago has gone 13 long enough," but I know -- well, Pam is gone.

14 I had a long discussion with Pam at the 15 last meeting about this and she believes that -- at 16 least her initial reaction was that there should be a 17 period much less than up to when trial starts to pull 18 that string. I think it's a policy question and it 19 really is a matter of efficiency, "How much 20 hemorrhaging of new attorneys' fees do you want to go 21 on before you say, 'Okay, too much has been invested 22 in the new trial to say you can re-enter judgment in 23 the old'?"

24 I'm sure I've made that as clear as mud, 25 but that's the best I can do with it.

1 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: No. That's very 2 clear. What do the Feds do? Does anybody know?

3 JUSTICE HECHT: They can undo it. And I
4 don't know if there are limits or not, but I know --

5 MR. GILSTRAP: I don't think there are.
6 The case that the Amarillo court cited that Galmore v.
7 Missouri Pacific (phonetic), that's one where they 8 went and granted the motion for new trial. They had a 9 completely new trial and then re-instated and then 10 rendered judgment on the old verdict. And the Fifth 11 Circuit bemoaned the fact that there had been such 12 waste of judicial resources, but they let them do it 13 anyway.

14 And I think that's kind of the abuse 15 that originally -- there was obviously some reason in 16 the original rules why they wanted to limit the trial 17 court's power. The problem is, under the current 18 rules, you can't. It's a trap. But that's a 19 different issue from what the underlying policy reason 20 is for limiting the trial court's power.

21 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Sarah?

22 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: My only 23 additions to what Skip said, I mean, if you look at 24 the memo from Justice Hecht, I don't understand Fulton 25 v. Finch. I don't see that the fact that the trial

1 court -- I mean, all 329b Section 3 said at the time
2 was "all motions and amended motions for new trial 3 must be determined within a period of time not 4 exceeding 45 days after the original amended motion is 5 filed." Well, we have the same rule now; it's just 75 6 days.

7 And I don't understand where Fulton v.
8 Finch came from except from a desire that there be a 9 period of time beyond which the trial court can't 10 vacate an order granting a new trial.

11 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Frank knows where the 12 Fulton v. Finch baby was born.

13 MR. GILSTRAP: The thing that we're 14 leaving out and that was talked about Fulton v. Finch 15 is the last sentence of Rule 5, which says, "The court 16 may not enlarge the period for taking any action under 17 the rules relating to new trials except as stated in 18 these rules." And that rule is still with us and the 19 court relied on that in deciding Fulton against Finch.

20 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: Well, my 21 question remains. I don't see how either one of 22 those --

23 JUSTICE HECHT: Well, the old rules said
24 "must be determined.," so that's granted, denied, 25 whatever. And once -- that arguably, once that period

1 passes, then you can't do anything about the motion.
2 You can't go back and re-rule on it. And the rule 3 doesn't say that anymore. It just says "If you don't 4 do something by the 75th day, it's going to be -- if 5 you don't grant it, it's going to be denied."

6 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: Even in the 7 rule as it existed at the time of Fulton, if the trial 8 court granted a motion for a new trial within the 9 45-day period, it would be determined within the 10 45-day period. I don't see how that --

11 JUSTICE HECHT: But Fulton did not 12 preclude you from ungranting it the next day. If on 13 the 35th day you thought, "I'm going to grant this 14 motion," and you sign the order and the next day you 15 woke up, "I've made a terrible mistake," you could 16 ungrant.

17 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: Right. But 18 what Fulton does say is that if you grant it on the 19 35th day, you can't wake up on the 46th day.

20 JUSTICE HECHT: Right.

21 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: And what I'm 22 saying is, I don't understand how the rule, at the 23 time of Fulton, required that holding any more or less 24 than it does --

25 MR. WATSON: I agree with Sarah. I

1 don't see how Fulton got -- well, I see how it got 2 there, but, to me, there is a qualitative difference 3 between "ungranting motion for new trial" and going in 4 and saying "No. I have the power to enter judgment
5 and I'm entering judgment. You can call it 6 re-entering judgment. I don't have to refer to a new 7 trial as granted. All I can do is just go in and say, 8 'Here's the judgment that's being signed in this case 9 without reference to a new trial.'".

10 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Joan.

11 MS. JENKINS: Well, I assume, regardless 12 of how we got to Fulton, we still have a problem that 13 needs to be rectified and I agree that the issue that 14 Skip raised, I think it's critical, especially in 15 family law cases, that the plug be pulled a lot sooner 16 than the commencement of trial. Because when you're 17 granting a new trial in family law cases, which is 18 fully two-thirds of, I guess, the cases that we're 19 looking at, you're talking about a situation where 20 you've got ongoing changing facts on a daily basis and 21 you've got tremendous cost involved in determining 22 what's happening to the estate, reconstructing the 23 estate, not to mention if you've got a series of 24 issues involving children. And so, you're talking 25 about tremendous new discovery cost and problems

1 associated with this. So I think the plug ought to be 2 pulled as soon as possible.

3 I agree, conceptually, with the concept 4 that you ought to be able to ungrant, so to speak, but 5 I think the ungranting should be done as quickly as 6 possible. I think there have got to be some time 7 limitations on that.

8 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Scott.

9 HONORABLE SCOTT BRISTER: I agree, you 10 need to be able to ungrant sometimes, but the way I've 11 seen it usually done is, grant a new trial and then 12 you vacate the order granting the new trial. That 13 creates a problem with what you can complain of.

14 Sure, you can complain of the order
15 vacating the new trial grant, but that's an abusive 16 discretion. And the problem is, if you've vacated 17 that order, are you too late to go back and say, 18 "insufficient evidence," that kind of thing?

19 So I think you have to make it crystal 20 clear that you can't just, you know, cut off a lot of 21 appellate rights because you vacated to grant a new 22 trial, and, therefore -- and your time to appeal was 23 way back yonder except as to the order vacating the 24 new trial.

25 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Justice Hecht.

1 JUSTICE HECHT: Yeah, no. You don't 2 want to do that. I can't defend Fulton v. Finch 3 because I wasn't there. And I can't even defend 4 Porter v. Vick, even though I was there.

5 I agree with Skip that neither case
6 really talks about these policy issues, although I 7 know that the court has not been oblivious to those 8 policies; it just doesn't know what to do about them.
9 And the reason why -- I don't know why -- I'm not sure 10 I know why the court denied the petition in Ferguson, 11 but even if I did, I couldn't tell you.

12 (Laughter)

13 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Without killing us.

14 (Laughter)

15 JUSTICE HECHT: One might well reason
16 that having been mistaken at least twice, there's no 17 point in screwing up a third time. I mean, this 18 really does have some fairly serious policy
19 implications, because on the one hand, it is important 20 to do it sooner rather than later. But on the other 21 hand, if the judge is sitting there at the beginning 22 of a three-week trial and he's just had a pretrial 23 conference and he granted a motion for new trial 24 because he thought an injustice had been done, he 25 thought the sides had not been fully presented to the

1 court, which happens, and so they've gone back and 2 done a lot more work and now they come in and they 3 basically tell you the same thing that you heard the 4 last time, it really is kind of throwing good money 5 after bad to spend both the State's time and the 6 parties' time in a three- or four-week trial when the 7 judge is already convinced that what happened the 8 first time was the right result and even -- and that's 9 probably what's going to happen this time, and if it 10 doesn't, he's going to be even more troubled about 11 that. I mean, it's hard to know.

12 Also, not necessarily in connection with 13 any of these cases that are mentioned, but I have 14 heard concerns expressed from time to time that a 15 judge might use this for ulterior reasons, I hate to 16 say, but I suppose it's possible, that either ungrant 17 the motion, and then if the things didn't go like he 18 thought they ought to go, he might hold this as some 19 sort of threat over the parties' heads. Again, I late 20 to even think that that's possible, but -- or rather, 21 Richard suggested something like that.

22 (Laughter)

23 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Even though he 24 doesn't know anybody who would do that.

25 (Laughter)

1 JUSTICE HECHT: So that's why it
2 doesn't seem, to me, to be an easy answer to that and 3 that's why the court finally decided this group ought 4 to come up with a solution instead of us.

5 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Justice Duncan.

6 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: The second half
7 of what I was saying is, I don't think the result -- 8 the first part is, I don't think the result in Fulton 9 or Porter or Ferguson is required by the rule that 10 we've got now. All of the rule that we've got talks 11 about now is, within what period of time do you have 12 to act on the motion or it will be acted upon by 13 operation of law.

14 The second part of that is, I think,
15 there are very good policy reasons for putting a limit 16 upon the time in which the court can vacate its order 17 granting a new trial. And there may be compelling 18 considerations -- I can't think of any of them -- for 19 extending that period past the period of plenary 20 power, but it would seem to me that the thing -- that 21 what we need to do to the rule is say, "A trial judge 22 may not vacate an order granting a new trial after the 23 expiration of a period -- the period of its plenary 24 power as measured from the original date of judgment," 25 or "120 days" or whatever you want to say.

1 But the problem, to me, in the rule
2 right now is not that it's silent. Its silence should 3 mean that if there's an order granting a new trial and 4 that order -- that order renders the entire concept of 5 plenary power irrelevant. We no longer have a 6 countdown. Everything is plenary.

7 So if we want to say that there is 8 another rule of plenaryness over orders granting a new 9 trial, then we need to say that in the rule. If 10 there's a flaw in the rule, it's that it doesn't speak 11 to this now, affirmatively.

12 MR. GILSTRAP: You just want to codify
13 the results of these cases and spell it out. Right?

14 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: I don't 15 necessarily want to codify these cases --

16 MR. GILSTRAP: The results.

17 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: No.

18 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: No. I'm not 19 trying to advocate a particular period of time, 20 although the period of plenary power makes some sense.
21 All I'm saying is that the cure -- is that the rule 22 needs to state whatever period of time it is within 23 which the trial court can vacate an order granting a 24 new trial.

25 MR. GILSTRAP: I agree. The chief

1 vice in these cases is that you don't know about the 2 rule unless you read the cases. There's nothing in 3 the rule that really gives you a clue that that's 4 going to be the result.

5 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Well, the other evil 6 of the cases is that right now, as the case from 7 Amarillo shows, that the court -- even though the 8 court has plenary power to do whatever he wants, 9 that's one thing he can't do.

10 JUSTICE DUNCAN: Right.

11 MR. GILSTRAP: Yeah. But that's not a 12 problem. There's a reason for doing that. There are 13 many times when -- you know, there are deadlines that 14 the court has got to meet, like "My plenary power runs 15 out tomorrow and I've got to rule on the motion for 16 new trial," and they go ahead and meet it. And if we 17 just tell them what the deadline is, they'll meet it.

18 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Okay. I'm with you.
19 So you like Skip's rule or his proposed change and 20 it's just a matter now of filling in the brackets?

21 JUSTICE HECHT: If you either deny the 22 motion or let it be denied, the operation, you only 23 have 30 days to change your mind. Here, if you grant 24 the motion, you can't change your mind.

25 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Right.. And that's

1 the problem.

2 Judge Peeples.

3 HONORABLE DAVID PEEPLES: I think,
4 probably statistically, most new trials are granted 5 when there's been a default judgment. And I would 6 hope that if there is a default judgment, the judge 7 sets it aside and then the defendant is before the 8 court -- I mean, would we let the judge go back and 9 reinstate a default judgment in effect?

10 HONORABLE SCOTT BRISTER: We're really 11 talking about trials, because summary judgment, of 12 course, this is not a problem. You grant a summary 13 judgment. Then you change your mind and you want to 14 go back, you just grant it again.

15 JUSTICE HECHT: See, I mean, this is 16 another example, just procedural on David's 17 hypothetical. Suppose the parties come in after a big 18 default judgment has been entered and says, "Judge, if 19 you'll just grant this motion we'll settle." So the 20 judge says, "Fine. I'll grant the motion."

21 So 20 days pass, nothing happens -- 22 30 -- 40, pick a number, they don't settle. And the 23 other side -- the plaintiff goes in and says, "Well, 24 Judge, they said they'd settle. They won't settle.
25 Reinstatement the judgment." The judge says, "Okay."

1 I mean, is that good or bad?

2 HONORABLE SCOTT BRISTER: You could do
3 that as long as it's within the plenary power.

4 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: I think that's 5 the problem, is that the concept of plenary power 6 doesn't make any sense once an order granting new 7 trial has been signed. So let's just pick a number of 8 days. I mean --

9 MR. GILSTRAP: Set another artificial 10 limit.

11 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: Shall we just 12 say that, you know, 30 days, 45 days after the judge 13 grants a new trial is the extent of its power to 14 ungrant it.

15 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Ungrant it, right.

16 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: But it's not a 17 plenary power concept and I think that's part of 18 what's so confusing.

19 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Skip.

20 MR. WATSON: Carl had his hand up before 21 me.

22 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: I'm sorry. Carl.

23 MR. HAMILTON: I agree with some of what 24 you're saying. I don't think the rules support the 25 case law, but -- and Bill and I talked about this

1 language. Once the court grants a new trial, the 2 court brings the case back, in effect; it ought to 3 have jurisdiction to do whatever he wants to in that 4 case for all purposes unlimited in time.

5 The language that we came up with is,
6 "If the court grants a new trial by signed written 7 order before the expiration of the period of its 8 plenary power, provided by this rule, the court 9 retains jurisdiction of the case for all purposes."
10 It makes no sense to -- say, if I filed the lawsuit 11 today and it doesn't get to trial for ten years and 12 the court somehow loses power over it and yet if the 13 court grants a new trial, then we're going to somehow 14 limit the court's power to ungrant that motion if the 15 court wants to.

16 Now, you know -- and we do have abuses 17 of that.

18 MR. GILSTRAP: Carl, how do you deal 19 with the abuse? How do you deal with the abuse when 20 the judge says, "Okay. Now we're going to have a 21 second trial and I want to see how that goes. We're 22 going to get a verdict. I may sign a judgment based 23 on it or I may go back and sign a judgment based on 24 the first trial"?

25 MR. HAMILTON: You can deal with that by

1 saying if he ungrants the new trial -- I mean, if he 2 grants the new trial, that's what he's got to do, is 3 give you a new trial unless he ungrants it. If he 4 ungrants it, then, presumably, he's going to enter the 5 judgment on the verdict.

6 MR. ORSINGER: What if he doesn't do
7 that until after he sees the second verdict?

8 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Yeah. He gets to 9 pick one of two inconsistent verdicts.

10 MR. HAMILTON: I mean, I guess we can 11 fix that by saying, "If he grants a new trial, he's 12 got to go with the second verdict," but you do have 13 abuses of the granting of the new trial, at least in 14 our county. We have some judges that routinely grant 15 new trials in the interest of justice if the outcome 16 is not like they want it to be. And then, you know, 17 conceivably that judge may be off the bench a year 18 later or two years later and another judge comes on 19 the bench and then it's presented to him with a record 20 to read of the trial and he says, "This is ridiculous.
21 I'm not granting a new trial. I want to ungrant it."
22 Right now, you can't do that.

23 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: It struck me that 24 Skip's rule, and particularly the parenthetical, makes 25 some sense that "at any time prior to the commencement

1 of evidence in the new trial," because once evidence 2 commences, there is a new trial and you are in the 3 process of creating a new record and you should 4 discourage both judges and litigants from creating a 5 second record and then having to pick or being able to 6 pick between one and the other. So I like that.

7 Now, Joan's point is a good one, that 8 there are a lot of cases that, you know, so much is 9 happening that it's a problem if you let it go that 10 far, to the commencement -- there is a certain --

11 HONORABLE SCOTT BRISTER: And you may 12 have never requested the court reporter to type up the 13 transcript of the first trial and she's destroyed her 14 notes.

15 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: Yeah.

16 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: That's a problem.

17 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: I think it's 18 symbolic of a whole lot of problems that are generated 19 by letting the decision to grant a new trial be 20 without cost.

21 MR. WATSON: Without consequences, you
22 mean?

23 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: Yeah.

24 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Right.

25 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: To me, if the

1 court is serious about granting a new trial for a 2 legitimate reason, then 30 days is long enough to 3 figure out if they made a mistake. And I'm not saying 4 30 as opposed to 45, but, for many cases, to get to 5 the point of the commencement of evidence-taking 6 involves enormous costs.

7 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: What I'm saying is,
8 that probably -- it ought to be no later than that and 9 probably should be sooner. And so now we're just 10 trying to talk about what the window ought to be.

11 30 days -- I mean, let's suppose it's 12 going to be done by motion. In a lot of counties, 13 it's very hard to get a motion, you know, up, briefed, 14 responded to and heard in 30 days. So I don't know 15 what the right time is, but it sounds like we are of 16 one mind that there ought to be a rule and now all 17 we're arguing about is how long the judge should have 18 to decide it. Is that fair to say at this late hour?

19 Richard, bathed in the sunlight that you 20 are.

21 MR. ORSINGER: I am totally behind the 22 idea of making sense out the second -- I disagree with 23 all earlier cases. I have my own theory on how they 24 got to where they are.

25 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Spare us for the 1 moment.

2 (Laughter)

3 MR. ORSINGER: And so, you know, to me,
4 it's just a question of "How long do you wait?"

5 I sympathize with Justice Hecht's point, 6 that even if it's late in the case, if the judge says, 7 "Oh, my gosh. I really don't want to pick another 8 jury and try this again," you know, but we're going to 9 condemn them to do that if they don't make the 10 decision soon enough. And then we have an even worse 11 situation, perhaps, which is that we have to wait 12 another six months and then pick a jury trial that 13 nobody really needs to go through and then he's stuck 14 with the result that he doesn't believe in anyway,
15 so --

16 MR. GILSTRAP: You've just got to pick a
17 date.

18 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Yeah. We've got to 19 pick a date. I have a question, too, and then we'll 20 get around to everybody. What happens -- the federal 21 system, apparently, is unrestrained as to time. And 22 so, are there abuses in the federal system? Is it --

23 JUSTICE HECHT: I think that's the worst 24 case I know about.

25 MR. WATSON: That's right. They picked

1 out the one case where -- you know, where there was a 2 double trial and they picked.

3 JUSTICE HECHT: Generally, they're not 4 granted, new trials, anymore than -- if anything, 5 state judges grant them more than the federal judges, 6 and they just don't grant them.

7 And the idea that they would wait very 8 long to ungrant it, I think it's fairly unusual. And 9 that case is kind of a remarkable case.

10 MR. ORSINGER: Also, the very long
11 period of time leads to the possibility that the bench 12 would change and a trial judge is going to overturn 13 another trial judge's setting aside -- I mean, if this 14 can go on for several years, I can foresee the bench 15 will change.

16 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Yeah. Good point.
17 Nina.

18 MS. CORTELL: I'm of the view that we 19 should give it a time line of something between 30 to 20 90 days. I don't think it should go beyond 90.
21 There's too much opportunity for abuse, cost and 22 waste.

23 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Skip.

24 MR. WATSON: I don't care about the time 25 limit. My concern is in the series of cases, and the

1 reason I was talking to Bill is, that I'm concerned 2 that the concept of plenary power, which we use in 3 this committee and has been used over and over in 4 these proceedings prior to this, that we seem to have 5 missed that, at least in our lifetimes, it's been 6 purely a sense of, "This judgment that has been signed 7 is going to be final. We're not going to indefinitely 8 delay the finality, enforceability and appealability 9 of a judgment." And if there's no motion for new 10 trial, then the power ends after 30 days. If there is 11 a motion for new trial, it's going to be 75 days. If 12 it's been timely filed, you can tack 30 days onto the 13 end of that.

14 But there's a specific period of time in 15 which the judgment that has been signed is going to 16 become final. That is the point -- and as far as I 17 can tell, the only reason God created plenary power.
18 That's the only reason it exists. And as Sarah said, 19 "Once the judgment is set aside, then there is full 20 power." That's the federal system. I'm not convinced 21 the federal system is bad, you know. I'm not 22 convinced that one case means the federal system is 23 bad.

24 And I see two sides to this argument. I 25 see the family law side in which the problem is

1 circumstances are changing as the more time that goes 2 along. I also see -- I mean, Chip, you've been in 3 cases in which it costs a half million dollars to try 4 the case -- I mean, just the trial cost a half million
5 dollars. And I can see that kind of case in which you 6 get up to the lip of trial, even if it's a year later 7 and you're about to have this hemorrhage of attorneys' 8 fees and tying up the time of the court, et cetera, 9 that's inefficient. And in pretrial you figure out or 10 have mercy if we've just disregarded one jury finding, 11 we've got a verdict, you know. And that jury finding 12 should have been disregarded. We're going to enter 13 judgment.

14 So the question is, "Are we going to 15 impose a limit," and then "What factors do we take 16 into account in doing the balancing act of saying 30 17 days, 90 days beginning of evidence?" That, I think, 18 we need too think about and sleep on.

19 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Yeah. You think we 20 need to study it more?

21 MR. WATSON: I think we need to sleep on 22 it at least overnight. I don't think we're ready to 23 vote on "39" or "120" or "beginning of evidence" now.

24 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Yeah, Stephen.

25 MR. TIPPS: Well, I think there aren't

1 any circumstances in which you ought to be able to 2 ungrant a new trial after you have commenced evidence
3 in a new trial. So my preference would be for a 4 standard that says, "You can't set it aside after the 5 expiration of blank days or the commencement of 6 evidence in the second trial, whichever comes first."
7 And I tend to agree with Nina, that the right number 8 of days is 60 or 90 or something like that, which 9 would be a sufficient amount of time to allow the 10 judge to decide he's made a mistake.

11 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Anybody else?

12 (No verbal response)

13 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: What's the sense of 14 everybody? Do we want to try to come up with a time 15 period now or do we want to defer that -- let me tell 16 you where I'm headed. The only item on our agenda 17 that we have left, I think, is a relatively timewise
18 minor one, which is the Rule 103, Rule 536.

19 Richard, do you disagree that that's 20 going to not take very long?

21 MR. ORSINGER: Yeah. What I want is a 22 sense of the committee kind of thing right now to 23 decide whether we want to invest a lot of time and 24 effort. I can summarize it in three minutes.

25 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Go.

1 MR. ORSINGER: Those of you remember
2 from previous discussions, the private process servers 3 are troubled, especially now that there are some 4 companies that have a large organization. They're 5 troubled about the fact that private process has to be 6 approved by the court that issues the process and not 7 by anybody in the county where the process is being 8 served.

9 So let's take Travis County. There's 10 lots of lawsuits that have to get served on the State
11 of Texas. And a process server who's living in Travis 12 County, under the best of circumstances, would go get 13 approved to serve process countywide in Travis, but 14 that's not the way it works. If the lawsuit is out of 15 El Paso, he's got to get permission from the El Paso 16 court to serve in Travis County. If it's out of 17 Dallas, he's got to get to the Dallas court to get 18 permission. If it's out of Houston, he goes to the 19 Houston court.

20 And so if you're in a community and 21 you're getting processed all the time and you're 22 serving it and the process is coming from other 23 counties, in order to serve that process, you have to 24 go to the other county and meet their requirements.
25 There's not any uniformity in those counties. And 1 some of them require insurance. Some of them require 2 seven hours of training, but the training is done on a 3 voluntary basis by the Houston Young Lawyers

4 Association and they will not tell you more than two 5 weeks in advance when they're going to have it. Other 6 counties charge a fee to do it; others don't charge 7 anything.

8 They want some kind of regulation where 9 they can comply with a set standard, one time with one 10 authority, and then they can serve process anywhere in 11 Texas. They've been to the legislature several time 12 to be able to do that with varying degrees of success.
13 One time they got a bill out of both houses but it was 14 vetoed by the governor. And so they've now come to 15 the Supreme Court and said, "Well, can you guys help 16 us because Rule 103 is the rule that permits private 17 process servers anyway?"

18 And what they're looking for is some 19 kind of uniform standard adopted by the Supreme Court 20 of Texas saying that, "If you meet this standard, then 21 you're authorized to serve process anywhere in Texas 22 no matter which Texas court it came out of." You 23 don't have to go to the sending court to get approval 24 and that means you're driving across the state and 25 meeting with all of these requirements.

1 The problem is, first of all, that looks 2 legislative and not rulemaking, even though it is, in 3 fact, in a rule^{*rB}. And secondly, the Supreme Court 4 doesn't have the authority to create an administrative 5 agency and it doesn't have the money to fund it. So 6 you'd think, "Well, probably the most the Supreme 7 Court can do," and this is, frankly, where I've gone, 8 is to say "Let's look and send a task force out, like 9 my subcommittee and let's look and see what all the 10 standards are: Seven hours here, background check.
11 If you've got a felony or misdemeanor or moral 12 turpitude, you can't do it. You've got to be over 13 18," whatever. Let's canvas what all of the 14 requirements are.

15 And then this is my suggestion that 16 makes a compromise possible, that let's take all of 17 the most onerous standards that exist anywhere in 18 Texas. And let's say that if you meet this 19 amalgamation of onerous standards, you can go to any 20 district clerk or county clerk in Texas and prove that 21 you've met these standards. You know, $300,000 22 insurance, that's the highest insurance anyone 23 requested. Seven hours of class, that's the most 24 hours anyone requested. I meet all of these 25 requirements. You prove it to a clerk. And then

1 pursuant to that local political situation, you get a
2 court order out of that court and that order 3 authorizes you to serve process for all -- issued by 4 all courts in Texas anywhere in Texas.

5 Now, the reason why I think that's 6 politically possible is because Bexar County wants 7 $300,000 insurance, so they're not going to like a 8 standard that doesn't require insurance. Other 9 counties don't require insurance. But we're not 10 forcing them, necessarily. What we're saying is that 11 if someone does meet the most onerous standards, 12 they're authorized statewide. If they're not going to 13 meet these conglomerated onerous standards, then they 14 have to go to the individual court and get permission.
15 And if the courts wish to allow felons to serve their 16 process out of their court, they can if they want to, 17 but no one else is required to --

18 HONORABLE SCOTT BRISTER: Why not? Why
19 not let felons -- I means, felons have got to do 20 something.

21 (Laughter)

22 HONORABLE SCOTT BRISTER: A lot of the 23 people we're trying to serve are felons. It takes one 24 to find one. It takes one to find one.

25 (Laughter)

1 HONORABLE SCOTT BRISTER: I mean, this
2 sounds to me like certifying barbers. I mean, you 3 know -- and the way -- in the guise of protecting the 4 public, a group creates a monopoly for them to make 5 more money. I just -- this whole thing offends my 6 free market sense. And I understand you're saying, 7 "Well, Harris County won't be forced to," but 8 practically they will. The floor will become a 9 ceiling.

10 MR. ORSINGER: No. Well, there isn't a 11 floor. The ceiling -- basically, the ceiling would 12 be, "If you meet these standards, you have met or 13 exceeded any standard that exists for any court in 14 Texas. And if you're willing do that and capable of 15 doing that, we'll authorize you one judicial act good 16 statewide. If you're less than this maximum standard, 17 then you're going to fall back on meeting the local 18 standards for that court."

19 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: But what Judge
20 Brister's point is is that no clerk of a county --

21 HONORABLE SCOTT BRISTER: People in 22 Houston will have to meet San Antonio standards if 23 they want to serve in San Antonio.

24 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Because you're going 25 to have a news report saying, "We've got all of these

1 private process servers in Harris County that don't 2 meet the standards promulgated by the Texas Supreme 3 Court." No clerk is going to do that.

4 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: I thought what 5 Richard was saying is, "We have a set of standards.
6 If a private process server meets that standard, they 7 can serve anywhere in the state."

8 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Right.

9 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: That doesn't 10 require Harris County to adopt those standards.
11 Harris County can still permit people to serve process 12 in its county without meeting those onerous standards.

13 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Right. And my point
14 is, as a practical matter, no public official is going 15 to risk the adverse publicity of saying, "I've allowed 16 a bunch of felonious process servers out there," you 17 know, "who are child abusers, who have no insurance, 18 to go out and serve private process when the Supreme 19 Court has set standards." It's not going to happen.

20 HONORABLE SCOTT BRISTER: And second, it 21 allows whoever is the most outrageously monopolistic 22 to say what the standard is going to be for the state.

23 MR. ORSINGER: Wait a minute. The 24 standards are set --

25 HONORABLE SCOTT BRISTER: Because

1 whoever says it's the most, that's going to be --

2 MR. ORSINGER: The standards are set by 3 the local judges, not by some private agency -- not by 4 a private process server organization.

5 HONORABLE SCOTT BRISTER: Right. But 6 there are counties --

7 MR. ORSINGER: Let me tell you, if you
8 want to go out there and say, "It is not fair to say 9 that in order to have a blanket order you've got to 10 have $300,000 worth of insurance," and we want to 11 promulgate a rule that says, "You only have to have 12 $50,000 worth of insurance," when you take it to 13 Dallas, under 100, or to San Antonio, under 300, 14 they're going to dislike that rule because their 15 judges have gotten together already and said, "We want 16 our private process servers to have $300,000." So you 17 have a political problem of cramming down a lower 18 standard on counties around the state than the judges 19 themselves would like on process out of their courts.

20 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Yeah. You're right
21 about that. But Judge Brister is also right, I think, 22 if I understand his point, is that the counties that 23 have laxer standards now, I mean, they're going to be 24 upset because they're going to be forced to move up to 25 our standard. You're going to create a statewide

1 standard. It may be a real tough one. It may be a 2 good idea. But don't be confused that you're going to 3 set a statewide standard.

4 HONORABLE SARAH DUNCAN: You're not 5 going to set a statewide standard. What you may do is 6 create heat on the Harris County officials who are 7 letting felons with no insurance serve process.

8 HONORABLE SCOTT BRISTER: Who's 9 collecting all of these civil processor's insurance
10 that you have to have? I mean, what are these people 11 doing? Nothing. This is just a scam to make it more 12 expensive. Why do you want to make it more expensive?
13 So you have less competition.

14 Look, if you want to just make it 15 expensive, let's just go back to the world where only 16 constables can do it. You can always sue the county 17 if the constable does it. But why did we switch that?
18 Because it was slow and expensive, like all monopolies 19 are.

20 JUSTICE HECHT: But the private 21 processors' point now is, "We can't continue to" -- "I 22 mean it's hugely more expensive for us now to meet the 23 requirements of multiple counties."

24 HONORABLE SCOTT BRISTER: I don't have 25 any problem if the Supreme Court said, "Instead of

1 applying to Harris County and San Antonio and 2 wherever else, apply to Austin," and you-all can sign 3 these thousands of orders every year. More power to 4 you. I mean, this is a big administrative headache
5 because --

6 JUSTICE HECHT: The chiefs are a little 7 more belligerent than I remember them being.

8 (Laughter)

9 HONORABLE SCOTT BRISTER: You-all want
10 to keep the list that grants these people? And you 11 have to keep a list, because if somebody lies on a 12 default judgment, you've got to strike them off the 13 list. So somebody has got to keep track of a list.
14 And I think it makes perfect sense for somebody in the 15 state to do that rather than all 254 counties.

16 MR. ORSINGER: But who is that going to 17 be and where are we going to pay their salaries? Is 18 the Supreme Court clerk going to do it or is it the 19 clerk at your Court of Appeals that's going to do it?

20 HONORABLE SCOTT BRISTER: It's not going 21 to be any more expensive if one person does it rather 22 than 254.

23 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: But, of course, if we 24 get into paying money, then that's a legislative 25 thing, it seems to me.

1 MR. ORSINGER: Well, it may be that 2 there's a district clerk somewhere, like in Travis
3 County, that's willing to do this administrative load
4 for free, but, you know, I haven't checked that out, 5 and I will if you want me to.

6 I'll just say this, if we want to adopt 7 statewide standards, I think it makes sense, because, 8 unfortunately, normally, you can get an order out of 9 your locale that allows you to do business in your 10 locale. Under this scenario, you have to get an order 11 out of everywhere in creation in order to do business 12 in your locale. So it makes no sense.

13 If we have a uniform standard, it's 14 going to work better. And maybe it needs to be lower 15 than Bexar County wants it to be and maybe it doesn't 16 need to be seven hours like Harris County wants. On 17 the other hand, if you go to these counties and tell 18 them, "You're only going to get three hours of 19 training. You're going to get no felons, but you can 20 get people with misdemeanors with moral turpitude and 21 they don't have to be US citizens," you're going to 22 catch some flack; the Supreme Court isn't going to 23 want to be cramming that rule down on everybody.

24 HONORABLE SCOTT BRISTER: You're only
25 addressing an Austin problem. In other words, if you

1 get approved by Harris County courts, you can serve 2 process on a Harris County case in Timbuktu. The 3 rules specifically say that, you can serve anywhere in 4 the world on a Harris County case.

5 MR. ORSINGER: That's right. Scott --

6 HONORABLE SCOTT BRISTER: What this guy
7 is complaining about is, he's in Austin and he wants 8 to take over serving the Secretary of State.

9 MR. ORSINGER: No. That isn't right.
10 You've got the same problem -- first of all, he's got 11 process servers in all of the big counties. And 12 secondly, not every piece of process that's served in 13 Harris County is issued out of a Harris County court.
14 Some of them are issued out of Dallas County courts.
15 Some of them are issued out of courts in outer lying 16 counties like Fort Bend, or, you know, up in Conroe.

17 So here you are in Harris County and 18 maybe 50 percent or 80 percent of what you do is 19 issued by Harris County court and all of a sudden here 20 comes a piece of process from El Paso County. So that 21 means you've got to get in the car and go over there 22 and file an application and pay them $15 and then 23 drive back to Houston so that now you can go back and 24 serve El Paso process in Houston.

25 HONORABLE SCOTT BRISTER: Most people in

1 El Paso, I assume, aren't calling up private process
2 servers in Houston to serve their El Paso cases.

3 MR. ORSINGER: Sure, they are.

4 HONORABLE SCOTT BRISTER: If you are a 5 statewide agency, like this guy apparently is, so that 6 he wants -- you know, he gets referrals for business 7 in El Paso and wants to call his Houston office and 8 tell them to serve it, but to do that he's got to get 9 his Houston people to come get approved in El Paso -- 10 I understand that problem -- but that's not most 11 people. Most people use local private process servers 12 to serve these things.

13 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Well, let 's go back
14 to our assignment. Justice Hecht, is the court 15 interested in our committee not only answering the 16 question of whether we think statewide standards are a 17 good idea but also giving the court a list of 18 statewide standards? Is it interested in both 19 questions or you just kind of what to know whether we 20 think it's a good idea or not?

21 JUSTICE HECHT: No. We're interested in 22 both. I think there is some concern that process 23 serving -- official process serving is something of an 24 artifact that is more expensive than it needs to be.
25 And the history -- the development in the last couple

1 of decades, certainly in the federal courts and in 2 other courts, has been to try to simplify that or else
3 require people who want officially -- process 4 officially served, to pay the extra burden of that.

5 I think that -- it seems like the 6 federal courts, don't they require you to accept 7 service, and if you don't accept service, then you've 8 got to pay for the marshall to come find you.

9 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: You have to sign a 10 waiver of service and get some extra time to answer.
11 And if you don't do that, the court can make you pay 12 for getting service.

13 JUSTICE HECHT: So I do think that the 14 market seems to think that private processors are 15 either more dependable or cheaper or whatever -- and 16 quicker, and that we ought to do something to 17 facilitate it. And I think they have a legitimate 18 complaint that they're getting whipsawed in 254 19 counties having different requirements at different 20 places.

21 And as I understood the representation, 22 it was, "Look, we'll do whatever it takes, reasonably, 23 but then we want to be able to do it statewide." So 24 whatever we can do to achieve that I think would be 25 good.

1 MR. ORSINGER: Let me ask this. Does
2 the court -- I mean, I've been on this committee long 3 enough to know that if you adopt a rule and the 4 district judges get mad about it, that changes
5 everything. And so, do you want us --

6 (Laughter)

7 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: They adopt one or 8 consider one?

9 MR. ORSINGER: What?

10 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Consider one.

11 MR. ORSINGER: Oh, consider or 12 promulgate a proposed rule that the district judges 13 get mad about.

14 Now, I don't know whether they're going 15 to get mad, but I assume they will. So if we adopt 16 standards that are lower than some of the big counties 17 agreed upon standards where the district judges have 18 gotten together, we'll get some negative feedback.

19 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: You've got both 20 problems, Richard. You've got standards that are too 21 low and standards that are too high, because there 22 will be some counties that say, "Wait a minute. I 23 don't need a guy to come in here with $300,000 of 24 insurance. I just don't need that. And yet you're 25 going to give me political heat -- I'm going to catch

1 political heat if we don't comply with the Texas
2 Supreme Court minimums." So you're going to get it 3 both ways. Just be ready for that.

4 MR. ORSINGER: Should this subcommittee
5 come up with its recommendations of what uniform 6 standards would be in terms of education, criminal 7 background, et cetera, et cetera? And then what do we 8 do, bring it here and vote on it or are we supposed to 9 run around and check with the district clerk of all of 10 these counties and find out who's going to go nuclear?

11 JUSTICE HECHT: No. Let's first find 12 out kind of what's going on, what the variations are.
13 And then I think you should come up with what you 14 think is reasonable, even if it's a lot lower than 15 what some other courts are doing. And then we'll 16 worry about the political problem, if there is one, 17 after that.

18 MR. ORSINGER: Okay. So then the 19 commission or this subcommittee is to get a sense or 20 maybe even a summary of what the requirements are, 21 make our own recommendation about what uniform
22 standards would be and then perhaps adopt an amendment 23 to Rule 103 that would implement those statewide and 24 then let the committee discuss it?

25 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: That's the idea.

1 HONORABLE SCOTT BRISTER: Don't 2 overestimate the -- I know in Harris County the 3 process was, of course, you initially say, "Well, 4 should these guys have insurance? Should they not be 5 felons?" The initial reaction, "Well, of course, they 6 shouldn't be felons, and, of course, they should have 7 insurance."

8 Then you start, "Well, of course, that's 9 going to cost money and mean fewer people and it's 10 going to be -- well, now wait a second." Don't read 11 too much into what judges have done. This is not our 12 expertise, you know. I mean, we are not the ones that 13 are going to have to pay. You-all are the ones that 14 use them. If the Bar all wants it to be cheap or 15 expensive, frankly, it doesn't matter to me as long as 16 they're doing their job.

17 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: And be sure to 18 consult with the pro-felon lobby, if you would.

19 (Laughter)

20 HONORABLE SCOTT BRISTER: They've got to 21 do something.

22 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Okay. Wait a minute.
23 Let me just say where we are right now. I think we 24 are at the end of our agenda, which is a happy place 25 to be, even though it's 5:30.

1 So Nina, you're going to tell Pam that 2 we're not doing anything tomorrow and you might ask 3 Pam to call Stephen Yelenosky because I know he was 4 planning on coming back.

5 Anybody else planning on coming back
6 that we know of that needs to get notice?

7 (No verbal response)

8 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Okay. Now, here's 9 the agenda for next time, draft proposed, and you 10 might have Pam look at this, too, because she was the 11 one that really wanted this.

12 We will start out, as usual, with a 13 status report from Justice Hecht giving us 14 up-to-the-minute details, comprehensive look at what 15 the court is doing on the rules. Then we'll go to 16 Richard's Rule 103.536 statewide standards.

17 You've got almost three months to do
18 this.

19 MR. ORSINGER: Okay. That ought to get 20 us about halfway there.

21 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Then we will have 22 parental notification rules with Justice McClure then 23 we'll go to Rule 6 with Pam Baron. Then we will have 24 the coverage of electronic media, which Orsinger's 25 committee has got. And Chris, you'll get both Richard 1 and me the materials on that?

2 MR. GRIESEL: Yes.

3 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: And then from there 4 we will go to visiting judge peer review, which 5 Justice Duncan's subcommittee has.

6 And you'll get her the materials on 7 that.

8 Then we'll go to Rule 21, which is a
9 Luke Soules issue, Richard, that you have let slide 10 for 10 of these many months.

11 MR. ORSINGER: I know I've done a bad
12 job. What is it?

13 (Laughter)

14 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: It's this little 15 letter here dated January 2001.

16 MR. ORSINGER: I'm going to come read 17 it over your shoulder.

18 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: So you can have that 19 letter. So we'll go to that.

20 Then we will have Justice Duncan on Rule 21 306a with the rewrite to (e)(5)(c) and (e)(5)(d). And 22 then we will have Mr. Watson's rewrite of Rule 329b, 23 Subparagraph (h).

24 MR. WATSON: Why is that last?

25 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Because we wanted to 1 keep you around late Friday.

2 (Laughter)

3 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: And then on Saturday
4 morning, the highlight of our next meeting, finishing 5 off the JP rules.

6 I'll entertain amendments or suggestions
7 regarding the agenda, but that's what we'll do next 8 time. And if I hear a motion, we'll be in 9 adjournment.

10 MR. TIPPS: Move.

11 MS. JENKINS: Move.

12 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: I figured I'd hear 13 that.
