

	Action	Bail Form Required?
INITIAL SETTING OF BOND	Magistration and setting bail after arrest on a warrant (no indictment or complaint)	Yes
	Magistration and setting bail after warrantless arrest	Yes
MODIFICATION OF CURRENT BOND	Changing the type of bond (between personal, cash/surety, or bond denial)	Yes
	Changing the amount of bond	Yes
	Denial of request for personal bond	No
	Changes to bond conditions	No
	Denial of request to change bond conditions	No
	Setting new bail after surety surrender on previous bail	Yes
BOND FORFEITURE & REVOCATION (Are you actually setting bail or just directing re-arrest?)	Judge revokes bond	No
	Judge forfeits bond	No
	Forfeit or revoke bond and issue capias	No
	After arrest on forfeiture, defendant is brought, and Judge sets a bond that is the same as the previous bond	No
	After arrest on forfeiture, defendant is brought, and Judge sets a bond amount different from previous bond	Yes
	With defendant present, Judge orders a bond revocation and denies bond (and takes D into custody) or sets new bond	Yes
WARRANTS	After a bond denial, the judge later reinstates the previous bond	Yes
	Issuing a capias	No
	Issuing arrest warrants	No
ARREST WARRANT AFTER INDICTMENT	Recalling a warrant	No
	After arrest following an indictment for new charges	Yes
	After arrest following an indictment if there is a change to the previous bond	Yes
PROBATION VIOLATION (REGULAR & DEFERRED)	After arrest, following an indictment but no new charges and no change to the previous bond	No
	Making any change to the type or amount of the initial bond set after arrest	Yes
	Issuing a warrant for probation violation	No
	Setting an initial bond after arrest on the warrant	Yes

The basic rules in determining whether a bail form needs to be submitted:

Entry into the PSRS is triggered at the time of arrest or change to original or modified bail decision.

- The bail form must be submitted when:
 1. Bail is initially set;
 2. The type of bond changes (personal, cash/surety, or bond denied);
 3. The amount of bond changes;
 4. A mandatory release pursuant to 17.151, CCP (speedy trial issues).

- You do NOT need to submit a bail form if only bond conditions are changed. However, there may still be other applicable statutes or local workflow steps necessitating memorializing the change with the sheriff's office, clerk's office or other justice partner.

- Revoking or forfeiting a bond, alone, does not require a bail form to be submitted. The bail form is intended to capture the moment in time that bail is set or judicially modified.
 - Until a defendant is re-arrested after revocation, a new bail has not been set.

- Writing a bond on a warrant does not require a bail form to be submitted. Once the defendant is arrested, the magistrating judge submits a bail form.
 - Bonds written on warrants or capiases are recommendations for the magistrating judge.