

TOGETHER FOR HISTORY, the four living Texas Supreme Court chief justices (top photo, L to R: Wallace B. Jefferson, Nathan L. Hecht, Jack Pope and Tom Phillips) pose at a luncheon to honor Pope for his contribution to the University of North Texas College of Law's library from Pope's extensive home collection. At left, they gather with Dean W. Royal Furgeson Jr. (far right) and Associate Dean Ellen S. Pryor (far left). Each signed a South Western Reporter volume, above, together with the legislators who helped create the new Dallas law school, State Sen. Royce West of Dallas and state Rep. Dan Branch of Highland Park. Branch and the final signatory, Austin attorney Steve McConnell, are Chief Justice Pope's former law clerks.
